45,000 BRITISH QUIT GREECE

LONDON, April 30 (AP)—Three-quarters of the 60,000 British soldiers who tried to save Greece have been taken away to fight on other fronts, it was officially announced today, and there is hope that still more may be taken out.

Prime Minister Churchill, following up an earlier disclosure by an authoritative source, said the 60,000, including a division each of New Zealanders and Australians, had suffered about 3000 casualties, leaving 12,000 men still unaccounted for.

NAZI-RUSSIA BREAK NEAR, LONDON HOPES

By MERRILL MUELLER

International News Service Staff

LONDON, April 30 (INS)—Possibility of a definite rupture between Soviet Russia and Germany—favored dream of pro-British "wishful thinkers" ever since the war began—moved a step closer to reality today with Moscow's announcement that 12,000 German troops have been landed at Turku in the Communist party newspaper Pravda and over the Moscow radio that a Nazi division, complete with tanks and artillery, had taken up this strategic position caused a flurry of excitement in London.

Optimists rushed to the conclusion that the announcement was an indirect but forceful warning to Germany that such steps do not meet with Russia's approval.

But even more conservative quarters were inclined to regard it as an indication that Moscow is becoming increasingly perturbed over the possibility that Hitler—now master of the Balkans—may be getting ready for his "Drang Nach Osten."

REQUESTED BY FINNS

An authentic Finnish source, however, said that Germany landed the troops as the result of an urgent request from Field Marshal Baron Carl von Mannerheim, Finnish commander-in-chief, who believes that Russia plans full occupation of Finland to safeguard Leningrad.

Mannerheim's original request, according to this source, was turned down because of German fears that war with the Soviets would result but the Wilhelmstrasse finally agreed to send a token force on condition it would be transferred to Norway if Moscow made an issue of the matter.

Finnish sources believe that Pravda's statement ends the matter temporarily and hope the German troops will remain in Finland indefinitely as a guarantee.

HITLER DRIVE TO EAST

Many persons are convinced that Hitler has early plans for this "drive to the East" and that the Finnish move marks an important step in this direction. One of these, it may be presumed, is Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

It will be remembered that in his world broadcast last Sunday, he again warned Russia that Hit-

Replied to a question in Commons, Churchill held out hope that the 45,000 figure on those evacuated could be enlarged.

"I believe I said at least 45,000," he said, stressing the "at least." The German high command reported capture of 5000 British soldiers.

Churchill said the 45,000 had safely reached their bases. He paid high praise to the fighting qualities of the imperial forces and declared that their losses occurred mainly around Mt. Olympus, Grevena and Thermopylae.

GERMAN LOSSES HEAVY

These losses, he went on, were small compared to the losses inflicted on the Germans, "who on many occasions for two days at a time were brought to a standstill by forces one-fifth their number."

He declared fervently that "the conduct of our troops, and especially the rear guard, in fighting their way so many miles to the sea merits the highest praise."

"It is the first instance," the Prime Minister said, "where air bombing prolonged day after day has failed to break discipline and order of marching columns, who, besides, being thus assailed from the air, were pursued by no less than three armored divisions as well as the whole strength of German mechanized forces which could be brought to bear."

Without giving figures for German casualties, Churchill said the Nazis also had suffered heavily in offensives against the Greek and Yugoslav armies.

HEAVY EQUIPMENT LOST

He said there would be a fuller account of the Greek campaign in the full dress debate scheduled for next week and the House cheered him when he said that "painful as are our losses, we have much to be thankful for and Empire forces have much to be proud of."

Asked if he meant that the 45,000 had reached their bases successfully, the prime minister replied:

"I believe that it is so. Indeed I think I am well within the figure. As I say, I give the information in terms in which it was given to me."

Questioned whether 45,000 men was the maximum number which could be expected to be withdrawn, he answered:

"I think I said at least 45,000. Supposing anything else we go on."

SAILORS JOIN RESCUE WORK—Trapped in the ruins of a building during the fire-bomb raid on London, a victim is carried from the scene of destruction by rescue workers and sailors. The work of these air raid volunteers is a saga of war that will long be remembered.

12,000 German Troops, Tanks, Artillery Landed in Finland

MOSCOW, April 30 (AP)—Pravda, Communist party organ, reported today that four German transports had landed about 12,000 German troops, equipped with tanks and artillery, at the port of Turku (Abo) in southwestern Finland April 26.

The troops proceeded northeast to Tampere April 28, Pravda declared in a dispatch from Tallinn, Estonia.

The report of the German troop arrivals was contained in the following nine-line dispatch printed at the top of Pravda's foreign news page without comment:

"According to reliable reports, on April 26 there arrived at the Finnish port of Abo four German transport ships from which about 12,000 German troops landed with arms, tanks, artillery, etc. On April 28, the troops began to move to Tampere."

Germans here asserted the Nazi troop arrival was merely part of the regular movement of troops through Finland to Norway which has been going on for some time under agreement with the Finnish government.

It was the first time, however, that notice of such movements had appeared in the Soviet press.

Pravda, in a separate article on "The Great Force of Stalin's Friendship of Peoples," referred to the Karelian Republic created after the Soviet-Finnish war last year.

"The toilers of the Karelian Republic are living in friendship," it said. "Beyond the border in capitalist countries now as never before are being developed national hatred, beastly chauvinism and the ideology of looting war."

"All the brighter in this gloom are our victories."

NAZI FORGE CHAIN

Russian warplanes roared over the Soviet capital today in practice flights as the Red army prepared for its annual May Day demonstration tomorrow. Aerial demonstrations will be given over 50 cities, it was announced.

The continued presence of German troops in Finland might forge a new link in the Nazi chain around parts of Russia, following Germany's occupation of Rumania and Bulgaria and her advance through Yugoslavia and Greece to the islands off the Dardanelles.

NAZI ENVOY GOES TO MOSCOW

is flying back to Moscow from Berlin. Diplomatic quarters awaited his return to learn whether there would be any new developments in Soviet-German relations.

Cosmosol Pravda, organ of the Young Communists League, said: "As a result of last week's battles the British have entirely lost their position in Greece, but their position in the eastern Mediterranean remains firm."

U. S. Troops Sail For Trinidad

WASHINGTON, April 30 (INS)—The Army transport American Legion sailed today from Brooklyn for the island outpost of Trinidad, the War Department announced.

The department's announcement stated the transport carried equipment and units of the 252d Coast Artillery now stationed at Ft. Screven, Ga.; units of the 11th Infantry from Ft. Custer, Mich.; a military police unit, and "miscellaneous service detachments."

Britain Bags 84 Night Raiders

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—A record bag of 84 German night raiders during the month of April was claimed by the British radio in a broadcast heard here today by NBC.

This nearly doubled the previous record of 47 raiders claimed to have been shot down over England in March.

The same broadcast declared that 42,000 tons of Axis shipping was sunk by British military forces in the week ending April 27.

U. S. WARSHIPS, BOMBERS ON PATROL TO AD IN BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Warships of the United States Navy, patrol bombers, and in all probability carrier-based aircraft, informed sources reported today, are already playing a vital role in patrolling ocean stretches which figure in Britain's "Battle of the Atlantic."

This assertion was made after President Roosevelt's flat statement that American naval vessels were not prohibited from entering combat zones by any executive order and that they would operate anywhere deemed necessary for hemisphere defense.

Mr. Roosevelt, in telling this to his press conference yesterday, said that it did not mean that Navy units are going into the European combat zone or that they would go in.

Nevertheless, apparently informed sources said it would be no surprise to them if the Navy's patrol aircraft has been covering at least portions of area included in Germany's recent extension of her counter-blockade zone westward. They mentioned specifically that part of the counter-blockade zone which stretches from Iceland almost to the coastal waters of Greenland, where the United States has acquired defense base privileges. This has been a danger area for British shipping.

The potential effectiveness of the whole far-flung surface and air patrol is so great, in the opinion of these sources, that it may make the convoy question a dead issue.

Two proposals aimed at preventing use of the Navy for Convoy duty came up for action today in the Senate foreign relations committee, but Administration forces were confident they had the majority to shelve both of them.

Strategists who took a last-minute poll reported that not more than nine of the 28 members would

F.D. Inviting War, Wheeler Says Here

President Roosevelt is "going around with a chip on his shoulder, hoping somebody will knock it off and get us into war," it was charged today in Boston by Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

HUB BRIDAL FOR ACTRESS

3 N. E. STATES FIGHT RAGING FOREST FIRES

Fire fighters in three states today began "mop-up" battles to bring under control raging woodland flames which have blackened thousands of acres and menaced nearly a dozen communities.

Massachusetts firemen and volunteers, nearly 1000 strong, spread out from Granitville in a drive to halt further spread of a blaze which has swept through 100 square miles of forests in the Dunstable, Westford, Groton and Forge Village areas.

From Cape Cod to the Connecticut river came every available piece of state apparatus—commandeered by State Conservation Commr. Raymond Kenney, who described the scene as "the worst forest fire this spring in New England."

Commr. Kenney himself directed the battle, aided by Lieut. Gov. Horace T. Cahill and Maj. Thomas Eckfeldt, with hundreds of Army men, CCC youths and volunteers to begin a last ditch fight against further spread of the flames.

Headquarters was set up at Sargent School, Granitville.

APPEALS TO MOTORISTS

Of major importance in the battle was a warning by Lieut. Gov. Cahill. He asked that motorists steer clear of the large fire area and give the firemen a full day of daylight to work, unhampered by curious sightseers.

After a 16-hour fight that ended with today's sunrise, firemen, volunteers and CCC boys succeeded in extinguishing the fire in Lynn field that burned over an area of five square miles almost out to Newburyport turnpike.

This blaze started at 2 p. m. yesterday and firemen from Lynnfield, Saugus, Reading, North Reading, Wakefield and Lynn battled throughout the afternoon and all night, using 25,000 feet of hose and many hand extinguishers.

No buildings were lost, hose lines

The Montana Republican, staunchest isolationist of Congress, declared that if the President is successful, it will mean an appalling toll in "men, tears and dollars."

"The President is violating his oath of office," Wheeler charged. "When he took office he vowed to uphold the Constitution."

"The law says that only Congress can declare war. If the President claims he can send convoys or patrols into combat zones, he will also send our Army into battle."

GUARDED BY POLICE

Accompanied by his wife, Sen. Wheeler arrived in Boston on the 10:30 a. m. train from Chicago, with his principal business here an address tonight in Symphony Hall in the crusade for peace being directed by the America First Committee.

The Wheelers were met at the South Station by Charles J. O'Malley, Boston advertising man, a personal friend, and by Louis J. Briens, city greeter, representing Mayor Tobin.

Two police detectives, Stanley Slack and William Crowley, were furnished as bodyguards for the Senator and his lady, and on their ride from the station to the University Club two motorcycle officers led the way and a police car trailed behind.

BLASTS PRESIDENT

At noon the Senator was guest at a luncheon in the Boston Bar Ass'n quarters, 21 School st., sponsored by students of Boston University Law School who agree with his policies.

Senator Wheeler made his first statements to the press in Boston while at the University Club, and he launched immediately into an attack on Roosevelt.

"Notwithstanding President Roosevelt's statement that he has a right to send the Navy into the combat zone," said Wheeler, "he has no right to send our Navy into that zone because it is a direct violation of the Constitution of the United States."

In doing so, Wheeler declared, the President is violating his oath and flouting the law.

RAPS DESTROYER GIFT

His own stand, taken on the floor of the Senate against the sending of convoys of men to Europe, was a correct stand in the opinion of Justice Sutherland, one of the

W. R. Hearst Marks Birthday Quietly

YREKA, Cal., April 30 (AP)—William Randolph Hearst celebrated his 78th birthday quietly at his 5680-acre estate in Siskiyou County.

The publisher entertained three of his sons, John, David, and Randolph, and their wives at a family dinner. Two other sons are in the East.

THIS TIME IT'S REAL! MARY BRIAN TO WED

By LOUELLA O PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, April 30 (INS)—Mary Brian, often called "the most engaged girl" in Hollywood, is saying farewell to all those rumors—and also to her career, Monday when she becomes the bride of Jon Whitcomb, handsome young illustrator and one of the best known artists in the country.

I couldn't have been more surprised when Mary telephoned me the news, for here is a romance that has certainly bloomed quietly and without a hint of fanfare. They met a year ago when Mary was making a prolonged visit in New York and no one realized how seriously the romance was until Whitcomb flew out here several weeks ago.

The prospective bridegroom, barely 30, is quite young to have established such an enviable reputation. He has done many magazine covers for "Good Housekeeping" and other national publications and is regarded as one of the finest artists in the country. It is amusing, however, that Mary has never modeled a cover for him.

"Maybe because I'm not his favorite type," she laughs. "He likes redheads."

Mary, who is one of the most beautiful brunettes in Hollywood, is a veteran of the movies, although she is still in her 20's.

The official announcement of the engagement was made this afternoon at the home of Mary's close friend, June Collyer Erwin, wife of Stuart Erwin.

Following the ceremony Monday, which will be a quiet home affair with June serving as Mary's matron of honor, the honeymoon couple will plane out to New York and then catch a boat for a honeymoon cruise to the Bahamas.

BAREFOOT GALS MEET HIS LORDSHIP

Halifax, Waitress in Park Tete-a-Tete

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Gee, you shoulda been along when Elizabeth O'Connor and Ann Magnotto and Billie Young met his lordship in Rock Creek Park yesterday. Yeah, Lord Halifax, you know, the ambassador.

It's their afternoon off from the Silver Cafe where they're waitresses, see, and they're wading in the creek when this Lord Halifax comes along with another fellow. Well, they recognize him from his picture in the papers and run after him and ask for his autograph.

Nice as anything, he writes it right on their popcorn box. Then he introduces the fellow with him—Malcolm MacDonald.

"You've heard of Ramsey MacDonald," he says. "Well, this is his son, Malcolm."

Elizabeth says, "Hiya, Malc," and Ann asks him if he was married. He says he was, so she says:

"I better be getting along, then."

But first Elizabeth asks his lordship for a carnation he had in his buttonhole and he gives it to her and says:

"I wish I had one for each of

Lord Halifax
Malcolm MacDonald

both tell him their people were born in Ireland and Ann says here came from Italy, but they all say they're strictly for England.

"But there are two kinds of Irish—shanty Irish and lace curtain Irish," cracks his lordship. So Billie says she's strictly shanty Irish.

And Billie asks him why he don't come down to the Silver Cafe some night and he asks her what it's like.

"Oh, we have a colored orchestra and a little dance floor and a lot of jitterbugs," she says. "You'd like it."

"I probably would," his lordship says. "Don't be surprised if you see me there some night." Gee!

And So This Nice Cop Had Bacon 'n' Eggs

This is a nice little story about a cop and an elderly lady who lives alone.

It's about Mrs. Frank A. Gardiner, 65, of Fairbanks, Al. Brighton. The wind blew shut her door locking her out this morning when she stepped into the yard for a breath of spring. Her breakfast was cooking on the stove—good, fresh coffee and bacon and eggs.

Fearing her breakfast would burn and maybe set the house afire, she called police.

Patrolman Timothy Sullivan arrived with a borrowed ladder hoisted himself through a second story window.

Mrs. Gardiner was so grateful she invited the officer to breakfast.

"Well, I don't know, it's my second breakfast," said the officer, fixing his napkin.

Dies at 102 In Newbury

NEWBURY, April 30—Mrs. Elias D. Rogers, who celebrated her 102nd birthday last Dec. 27, died today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Yesair, with whom she had been living.

The oldest woman in this area, Mrs. Rogers had been a lifelong temperance advocate and an unwavering Republican, and on one of her birthdays had asserted that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt did "too much gadding about."

Widow of Alonzo D. Rogers, who died in 1903, the centenarian was a native of Danvers but had lived in Newbury.

Legion to Build Home for Disabled Vet, Blind Mother

WINSTED, Ct., April 30 (AP)—Clifford "Biff" Johnson, hospitalized World War veteran, and his blind mother, Mrs. Harriet Johnson, needn't worry about a place to live—the American Legion is going to build them a home gratis.

Work on the structure, which will replace one destroyed by fire a few months ago, will start Sunday with all veterans invited to the "raising bee."

The lumber already has been bought through a fund raised by the Tuttle-Burn post of the Legion, Joseph Girard, local contractor and his employees.

SOUTHERN COAL MEN IN DEADLOCK

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Southern coal producers and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers Union, stalled in their first attempts to agree on a temporary wage basis for reopening southern mines, resumed their joint negotiations today amid reports that 50 per cent of the northern coal fields were back in operation.

Representatives of the two groups are seeking an agreement on a temporary plan for applying the southern producers' proposed $1 a day wage increase in the South pending negotiation of a new wage scale applicable for the next two years.

PARLEYS RESUMED

The joint conferences were resumed after Lewis reported to his union policy committee the course of yesterday's joint talks and the reported difficulty encountered by the two sides in applying a temporary wage boost to some classifications of mine workers.

The conference room snag prevented the union miners from returning to work in Southern fields at the same time as their Northern union colleagues.

Reopening of the northern mines was approved yesterday after the union and northern operators had entered into a temporary wage agreement on the basis of a wage increase already negotiated.

The estimate of a 50 per cent production increase in northern fields came from union sources on the basis of reports made at the policy committee meeting.

FAIL TO AGREE

The CIO United Mine Workers Union and southern producers spent nearly nine hours in conference yesterday without reaching a temporary agreement for resuming production in the south pending a final wage contract.

Shortly before midnight, union and mine representatives announced rather gloomily that the details had not been agreed upon for resuming work in southern mines, which produce approximately 150,000,000 tons a year.

U. S. to Enlist Fishermen

New England fishermen, between 17 and 50 years of age, will be enlisted to establish a reserve branch of the Navy that will man the local defense force in event of war, the Navy Department announced today.

The men will make up the M-2 class of the United States Merchant Marine Reserve. In case of war they will be called to handle the trawlers and yachts that the Navy has taken over for local defense.

Enlistments are being accepted at the Boston Navy Yard and at branch depots in Lynn, Portland, New Bedford, Pawtucket, Newport, Fall River, Worcester and Springfield.

Court Refuses To Be Confused

No sentimentalist in Judge James S. Wyner of Brookline court.

"It was like this, your honor," began Ashley B. Thomas, 24, of Roxbury, explaining why he drove through a red light.

"It was Thursday and I was going to be married the next Sunday and I'm afraid my mind wasn't on my driving. I was confused."

"Despite the fact, etc. etc.," said Judge Wyner, frowning at Thomas, 33.

P. S. Thomas WAS married that Sunday.

Today Is Deadline For Auto Checkup

Today's the last chance to get that automobile equipment checked and still be under the spring deadline set by Registrar Frank A. Goodwin.

Beginning tomorrow, registry inspectors and police will begin prosecuting all motorists who have failed to have their machines inspected according to law.

Woman's Quick Action Saves Girl From Gas

Marion Zallen, 19, of Quincy, was alive today because of the quick action of a neighbor who found the girl close to death in the gas-filled kitchen of her Quincy Shore dr. home.

The girl was revived by firemen summoned by Mrs. Robert Church, who lives in the first-floor apartment of the two-family house, when she detected the odor of gas and was unable to gain entry to the Zallen apartment.

Working in relays and using the prone method of resuscitation, a dozen firemen under Capt. Anthony Cain succeeded in reviving the girl. Patrolman James A. D. MacKay, assigned to investigate, reported that the girl was alone in the house and that keyholes and windows in the kitchen had been stuffed with paper.

Pinned inside the front door of the apartment, the officer said, was a note addressed to the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Zallen, who conduct a variety store in Billings rd., Norfolk Downs.

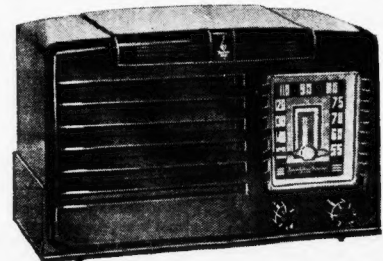

Fritz Kreisler Makes Slight New Gain

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—A "continued slight improvement" in the condition of Fritz Kreisler is noted at Roosevelt Hospital where the 66-year-old violinist was taken after suffering a skull fracture in a traffic accident Saturday.

IN THE ARMY NOW—Harm Nelson, Jr., 33, former husband of Screen Star Bette Davis, today was inducted in the Army at New York. He is an advertising man, native of Massachusetts and '32 graduate of State College. He and Miss Davis were married in 1932, divorced in 1938.

171 MOTORISTS FINED $858 IN CAMBRIDGE

One hundred and seventy-one law-breaking motorists were fined $858 today in East Cambridge district court in what Clerk Charles D. Cavanagh said was the largest single traffic session in the court's history.

For more than three hours, the defendants filed up to Judge Robert Wolcott's bench for sentence. During the session the courtroom and corridor was filled with traffic law violators.

All victims of a police drive to cut down speeding, following Cambridge's seventh traffic fatality since Jan. 1, they paid out $713 of the amount assessed, the rest being deferred for later payment.

TWO SENT TO JAIL

Two of the defendants were sent to jail in lieu of $5 fines on recommendation of Probation Officer John L. Delay, who said they had lengthy records.

They were Frank D. Atwood, 23, of Grove st., Melrose, and Joseph J. Guehl, 24, of Frankfort st., East Boston, both of whom must work out their fines in East Cambridge jail at the rate of 50 cents a day—unless friends come through with the cash.

They were charged with failure to slow down at intersections.

STUDENT FINED $100

Heaviest fine was imposed on a rough-riding M. I. T. student from Texas, Lamar Fleming, 20, assessed $100 for unlicensed driving of an improperly registered motorcycle.

Metropolitan Officer Eugene H. Rodley said he arrested Fleming after seeing him ride down the 30-odd steps of Walker Memorial Hall on his vehicle.

Fleming was given a few days to raise money for the fine.

So numerous were the defendants, the court had to run in relays. They stood three-deep in the rear of the courtroom, while scores of others, unable to get in, were lined up in the corridor.

Judge Robert Wolcott's desk was buried under complaint tags, court records and police notes.

How to plead seemed to be the errant motorists' greatest concern—until one of the first defendants suggested nolo. Then everybody pleaded nolo.

Fines of $5 were imposed in most cases, except for defendants with past records, who were assessed $10.

Asked for comment, Police Chief Timothy F. Leahy declared:

"Speeding in Cambridge must stop. I have ordered my men to continue their drive without let-up."

Cambridge's auto death rate since Jan. 1 exceeds by two the record for the whole of 1940.

"You were a free Frenchman," corrected the sergeant as he ordered the man locked up.

SLEUTH KILLS HER "BY MISTAKE"

Pretty Jennie Martin, 24, of Chicago is dead today, shot by a Chicago sleuth who said he "went crazy" and killed the girl "by mistake." The veteran detective said he meant to kill himself and the girl's mother because she bothered him to do something for her case. She's under indictment on charge of conspiracy.

Pay Raises Stir Chelsea

Chelsea taxpayers were hopping mad today when it was revealed that, despite a 3 per cent wage cut now in effect for all city employees, the board of aldermen last Monday night created four new city positions and raised the pay of 17 employees to a total outlay of $7000.

By the parliamentary device of calling a meeting of the committee of the whole, after Alderman James Hamilton had asked for a recess, the pay increase was passed on "an order for salary readjustments" and was kept secret until today.

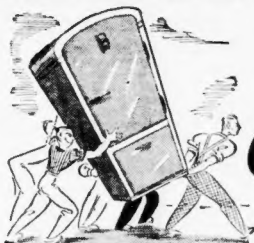

Three new stenographers were appointed and Mrs. Mary Morris was named director of women's personnel in the WPA administrative office.

Pay increases went to seven WPA workers in the administrative office, to three welfare investigators and others. Matthew M. Higgins, building inspector, received a pay increase of $400.

Counsel Asks Freedom For Seized German Crew

Describing the crew of the seized German freighter Pauline Friederich as "mere pawns involved in titanic forces," Atty. John C. Johnston urged today in federal court that indictments charging them with sabotage be quashed.

"It is our proud boast," Johnston declared, "that our system of democratic government protects the individual from undue abuse of power."

"These men were mere pawns involved in titanic forces, and should be protected."

The vessel's captain, Ernest

Heitzmann, four officers and five crew members, were arrested by Coast Guardsmen March 30 in the wholesale seizure of foreign ships ordered by President Roosevelt to thwart sabotage plots.

They were said to have damaged the 473-ton Pauline Friederich's motors and other equipment to such an extent as to make her unusable.

Reading extensively from the U. S. Code of Laws, he argued the men could not legally have been arrested except in time of a full national emergency proclaimed by the President. Such a condition has not yet been declared, he said.

30 Flee Fire In West End Tenement

Thirty persons fled and a woman collapsed of a heart attack after she was carried to safety as fire swept a four-story West End tenement and spread to two adjoining buildings early today.

Mrs. Bessie Tankle, owner of the building, asserted she had ordered two loiterers from the doorway a few minutes before the blaze broke out. Trapped in her second story apartment, Mrs. Tankle crawled on a window ledge to an adjoining building and was assisted to safety by police. Firemen carried her 12-year-old son, Vincent, down a ladder.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. John Zanastuck, occupants of the fourth floor, reached safety over fire escapes and roofs of nearby buildings.

Soon, however, the families of Bessie Nolet, Sophie Nyhal and John Frederico were forced from their homes at one side of the burning structure and flames also drove out from the opposite side the families of Samuel Dinoff, John Andrews and Alexander Misluk. Variety stores and a plumbing shop on the ground floor were ruined.

Mrs. Tankle suffered a heart attack a few seconds after she was rescued. She was removed to City Hospital.

side stands. Hundreds of fire fighters at Upton, Me., sought to control a blaze sweeping toward Andover.

Another Maine fire, at Fryeburg, was checked after burning a million feet of stacked lumber in the woods.

At Sebago, Me. two families were made homeless and the town records were destroyed before firemen brought a fire under control at Sebago Center.

Meanwhile, Vermont and New Hampshire had troubles almost as serious, with thousands of volunteers battling to check fires.

Tinderlike conditions in all three states added to the danger and the weather bureau offered no hope of rain in the immediate future to alleviate the menace.

N. Y. Children Will Observe American Day

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, April 30—New York's vast army of school children—1,000,000 strong—will participate directly or indirectly in the observance of I Am An American Day, which will be held on the mall, Central Park, Sunday, May 18.

In a special notice, addressed to all superintendents, principals, directors and heads of bureaus, John E. Wade, acting superintendent of schools, asked that the schools cooperate in the great patriotic celebration in these ways:

Through writing essays on "What It Means to Be an American."

Through special assemblies in the schools between now and May 18, at which the significance of American citizenship will be stressed.

By urging students and their parents to attend the rally, now being rapidly organized.

Will Provides $15,000 Gem

Executors of Mrs. Mary R. Frost's estate must buy a pearl necklace for not more than $15,000 and give it to her daughter, Mrs. Mary R. Osgood, of Westwood, under terms of her will filed today in Dedham Probate court.

The request evidently is intended to match a pearl necklace and two diamonds left another daughter, Mrs. Jane F. Clark.

Mrs. Frost, a resident of Doves, died last April 14. Her land and buildings, the income from the residue of her property placed in trust and $25,000 in cash, she bequeathed her husband, Donald Frost.

On his death, $75,000 of the principle is to be awarded to Mrs. Osgood, and the remainder to be kept in trust for the benefit of both daughters.

Total value of her estate was not disclosed.

F. D. DROPS HUGH JOHNSON FROM ARMY

By GEORGE DURNO

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 30 (INS)—Emphasizing that "personalities" were not involved, the White House today disclosed that President Roosevelt had rejected the application of Hugh S. Johnson, noted columnist and fiery New Deal critic, for reappointment as a brigadier-general in the Army reserve.

The White House made public a letter from Maj.-Gen. Edwin M.

Watson, presidential secretary, to Johnson, in which Watson pointed out that since the War Department was not planning to call him to active duty, a reappointment at this time "would amount to a purely honorary rank without significance."

Presidential Sec. Stephen T. Early declared there was no analogy between the case of the columnist, and former NRA director, and that of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The latter resigned his reserve commission in the air corps after Mr. Roosevelt criticized his recent public utterances and compared him to notorious appeasers of the Civil War and Revolutionary periods.

Early pointed out, to the contrary, that it formerly was the practice to call reserve officers to active duty for the purpose of "gagging" them.

"The only way to have denied Lindbergh the right of free speech would have been to have called him to active service and assigned him to a station," the Roosevelt spokesman said. "He then would not have had his present freedom of speech."

The question of personalities first was raised by Johnson himself, Early said, in a letter to the President under date of April 16 inquiring why no action had been taken on his application for a renewed reserve commission.

Early did not make Johnson's letter public but it was understood the general took notice of the rift which had developed between him and the White House in recent years on matters of major policy.

Insurance Fraud Suspect Nabbed

Boston detectives today arrested a man of numerous aliases, wanted in at least six cities for allegedly perpetrating an insurance fraud which victimized scores of women throughout New England, New York and Pennsylvania.

According to Capt. Robert Lynch of the detective bureau, the man will be questioned concerning the larceny of $23 from a Dorchester woman a year ago. The suspect is said to have informed her that her uncle died in Connecticut, leaving a $5000 insurance policy, and that she was the sole heir.

For a $25 fee, he was said by police to have promised to transfer the insurance policy from Connecticut to Massachusetts. After receiving the fee, however, he disappeared.

This formula, police charge, was repeated many times in other cities and towns.

F. D. TO OPEN SAVINGS BOND DRIVE TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt will buy the first bond and officially open the Treasury's multi-billion dollar defense savings campaign tonight.

The ceremony will be presented over all the major radio networks at 10:30 p. m., Boston time, with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Postmaster-General Walker participating.

The new savings stamps and bonds will go on public sale tomorrow morning at most postoffices, banks and other places. The list of defense savings securities includes stamps in denominations from 10 cents to $5; one series of baby bonds almost identical with existing bonds of this type in denominations from $25 to $1000; and two series of larger bonds in de-

The program has three principal objectives, Treasury officials said:

"(1) to raise money for national defense, (2) to prevent inflation by borrowing the defense money from as many Americans as possible and by encouraging Americans to put their money into savings bonds instead of spending it on non-essentials, and (3) to provide American citizens with a 'financial cushion' which will break the shock of hard times that may come when the country changes back to normal economy from the present war-aid setup."

U. S. HEADING TO WAR, SENATOR WHEELER DECLARES IN BOSTON

greatest authorities on constitutional law, Wheeler added.

"I have no doubt in my mind whatsoever," he declared, "that the President has gotten his opinions relative to his recent move from his own attorney-general, Prof. Frankfurter and Cohen, who have practically told him he can do anything he wants.

"On top of that he has been given the support of the warmongers known as the international bankers."

Wheeler also referred to the trading of 30 destroyers to Britain for western Atlantic bases and said that Roosevelt "right there and then violated the law."

AGREES WITH CARDINAL
"Apparently a little thing like the Constitution or the laws of the United States doesn't interfere with the President, providing he wants to get us into war."

"I would hate to have my name placed down in history the way Franklin D. Roosevelt's name will go down in history if he takes us into this war, which would be against the wishes of 95 per cent of the people."

Wheeler said he has taken his own poll of the people and has arrived at that percentage figure, despite the recent returns from the Gallup poll which showed a lower percentage.

"The people of the United States," he continued, "are in no mood to go to war and I agree with Cardinal O'Connell when he said, 'This is no time to toy with the wishes of the American people.'"

"CHIP ON SHOULDER"
"Leaders of every church denomination to whom I have spoken are opposed to our entry into this war. Besides churchmen, others opposed include farmers, workers, merchants and manufacturers, even defense manufacturers, because this latter group realize that after the war, orders will stop and they face another depression in which we will be worse off than in the one before.

"There is only a handful in this nation who advocate war, most of them the so-called intellectuals who think we should all think internationally. We did that 25 years ago and now we ought to realize what it will cost in men, tears and dollars.

"He has sent out his cabinet members and roving ambassadors to whip up sentiment throughout the nation urging our entry into this war, but it has failed. The sentiment is against it."

Asked what his views are on Col. Lindbergh incident and the flyer's resigning his commission, Sen. Wheeler said:

"It is unfortunate that the President should lose his temper every time somebody takes a position against him.

"Today he is leading a smear campaign against advocates of peace. He sets the pace and then the Winchells and Dorothy Thompsons and the rest of the New Deal columnists follow him up."

BACKS STRONG DEFENSE
Commenting on the American defense program, Wheeler said:

"I am in favor of the defense program, not because I fear any nation invading our shores but to be ready to meet any situation that might arise.

"We are not as well prepared today as France was or England was when they entered the war. They were warmongers and hot-heads who forced Chamberlain into war.

"Here in the United States we have the same type of warmonger and hothead, led by the President, who are seeking to get this country into war.

"If we get in, not only will we be ploughing under our American boys but it will mean the loss of our democratic republic.

"NOT OUR WAR"
"I can't understand why anyone should want us to take part in the bloody conflict waging across the sea, for three reasons:

"1—It is not our war.

"2—No honest-thinking person can conceive invasion of this country.

"3—Even with the aid of the United States it would seem impossible to land troops on the European continent and drive the Germans back to Berlin, which would be necessary to bring about defeat.

"When the English attempted to support the French and the Belgians, they couldn't keep troops on the European continent."

Asked for his views on the possibility of a German victory in the war, Wheeler said:

"I believe Mr. Hitler will fail in his announced policy of a united Europe. His failure will come with peace when he attempts to consolidate all different races of Europe with a history of a thousand years of antagonism.

SEES AXIS AS MENACE

"The Axis will not be a menace to our own security. From an economic standpoint, however, it will be a menace. Whoever wins the war, we in this country will have a problem on our hands to compete with the lower standard of Europe.

"I contend, however, that free enterprise and free labor can compete with a totalitarian state and totalitarian-controlled labor. If my thesis is not correct, then I will concede that the basis of our institutions, which have been capitalistic-controlled, is wrong."

Wheeler said that "like all good Americans" he is supporting the lease-lend legislation "because it is a law and we must respect our laws."

"I have no objection," he said, "to the President giving more ships and more aid to Britain, because that is only living up to the law. But again I say I object to the President sending convoys."

Grim War for America Seen by Bishop Lawrence

No other course lies before America than to prepare quietly, grimly for war and for all utter heartbreak and desolation that goes with it, Bishop William Lawrence of Boston declared today.

Bishop Lawrence was addressing the more than 200 delegates of the 156th annual Episcopal diocesan convention, gathered for the second day of their two-day meeting.

"As I approach my 924 birthday," Bishop Lawrence said, "I pause to ask myself where do I stand, and why I stand there. I was determined not to add to the writer of war talk, but I must."

"Since the World War the countries of the world have been leading their fluctuating existence, except for Germany," he declared.

"That nation, formerly admired for its appreciation of the arts, under wonderful leadership, held to one course, created a new order without liberty and without religion, that has conquered widely."

"Now we hear shouts not to send our young men abroad to die."

NO OTHER COURSE

"There is no other course for us than to quietly, firmly, grimly, prepare for war, for the ghastly and horrible destruction of many of the fine principles of our civilization, for the loss of dear ones and friends."

N Behind the Nazi soldiers I see millions of peaceful Germans waiting for the war to end. I see many conquered people waiting for the day of deliverance.

"I have refused to have any connection with organizations that offered aid to Britain short of war. What right have we to offer help as long as we ourselves remain safe? Who is to say where peace ends and war begins?"

SEES BLOODY STRUGGLE

"I hesitated to vote for either presidential candidate last fall, for each promised to keep us out of war, a promise I knew they could not keep as events moved."

"I see before us a grim and bloody struggle, the death of much of our culture."

"The only hope I see is in our faith in God, in the character of millions of simple peoples throughout the world."

The Rev. Dr. Richard S. M. Emrich also declared the church's aloofness from racial, economic and political problems mitigated, toward the present world-wide chaos.

RESOLUTIONS READ

Dr. Emrich, professor at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge and rector of St. Ann's Church in Lincoln, said in the present international situation the church was faced with a choice of either entering or withdrawing from temporal affairs.

A number of resolutions were read for the convention's approval.

One set forth that the present war constituted a challenge to the doctrines of Christ and urged the convention to go on record for unwavering prayer for victory of the right principles. Another urged cultivation of the spirit of goodwill toward those differing from us, either fellow citizens or foes.

Bishop Henry Knox Sherill presided.

Earlier the bishop had delivered a ringing appeal to the clergymen to denounce and oppose Nazism.

Speaking in Trinity Church, Bishop Sherill had declared that Americans have no right to relieve themselves of world responsibility while Christians are dying and suffering.

"The Christian gospel has no note of cowardice or of safety first," he said.

British Get 45,000 Safely out of Greece

ing forward, I naturally would not refer to it."

Concerning evacuation or destruction of heavy equipment, Churchill told another questioner: "Heavy equipment could not, of course, be removed, but the Germans are not short of heavy equipment."

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden refused to answer a question on what had become of Greece's navy, but the House cheered him wildly when he agreed to convey to Greek Premier Emmanuel Tsouderos, "on behalf of the House and nation, our deep gratitude for the magnificent courage and endurance which the Greek army has shown and for their loyalty as Allies."

Hope was said to be held out that part of the remaining 12,000 would be saved in withdrawal operations still in progress.

The German high command, reporting Nazi motorized forces in sharp pursuit of the British to block their flight across the sea, said that so far 34,000 Britons, including one general, have been taken prisoner in Greece.

GREEKS ADVISED MOVE

In Cairo, the Middle East command war bulletin said simply that the withdrawal from Greece is "continuing satisfactorily."

Because it felt that further bloodshed would be useless to the Allies, the government said, Greece advised the British on April 21 to withdraw their forces and avoid vain sacrifices.

On April 21, Greece's Epirus and Macedonian armies were negotiating surrender, other Greeks and the British were falling back across the Thessaly Plains and resistance had turned into mere bitter-and-delaying actions.

The Germans then were beyond Larissa and Metaxov Pass and, two days earlier, had planted their flag over Mount Olympus.

GREEK MESSAGE

The Foreign Office news department issued this translation of the Greek message to the British government:

"The Greek government, while expressing to the British government and to the gallant Imperial troops their gratitude for the aid which they have extended to Greece in her defense against the unjust aggressor, is obliged to make the following statements:

"After having conducted for more than six months a victorious struggle against strongly superior enemy forces, the Greek army has now reached a state of exhaustion and, moreover, finds itself completely deprived of certain resources indispensable for the pursuit of war, such as munitions, motorized vehicles and airplanes—resources with which it was in any case inadequately supplied from the outbreak of hostilities.

"This state of things makes it impossible for the Greeks to continue the struggle with any chance of success and deprives them of all hope of being able to lend some assistance to their valiant allies.

USELESS BLOODSHED

"In these conditions, the continuation of the struggle, while incapable of producing any useful effect, would have no other result than to bring about the collapse of the Greek army and useless bloodshed to the Allied forces.

"Consequently, the royal government is obliged to state that further sacrifice of the British Expeditionary Force would be in vain and that its withdrawal in time seems to be rendered necessary by circumstances and by interests common to the struggle."

A British broadcast, heard in New York by CBS, called the statement the first official British declaration on the Greek campaign and said it was made by War Secretary Anthony Eden in answer to a parliamentary question.

British Withdrawals In Greece 'Satisfactory' vote to approve either proposal in an effort to bring it to the Senate floor.

The fact that Chairman George (D.) of Georgia has said he did not believe the President would institute convoys without first obtaining congressional approval was interpreted in some quarters as an indication that much was expected from the wide-ranging defense patrol operations.

Mr. Roosevelt, in discussing the patrol yesterday, repeated time and again that there were no nuclear limits for its activities. A little earlier Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, had disclosed that at some points ships of the fleet were cruising as far as 2,000 miles offshore, but Mr. Roosevelt declined to commit himself to this limit, remarking that the 2,000 mile distance depended on where you measured from.

Berlin Again Warns U. S. on Combat Zone

BERLIN, April 30 (INS)—The German government today reiterated its long-standing threat that any ships entering the combat zone around the British Isles would be torpedoed—American or otherwise.

The statement was made by Wilhelmstrasse officials in answer to President Roosevelt's plan to extend the United States neutrality patrol to whatever limits he deems necessary.

LONDON, April 30 (AP)—American-built Havoc planes carried out "successful attacks" last night on three airdromes in Northern France from which German raiders fly against Britain, the air ministry news service said today.

The Havoc is a Douglas DB-7 equipped for night fighting. It is a light bomber, known in England also as the "Douglas Boston."

One airdrome was hit by a stick of explosive and incendiary bomb.

At the second base, a Havoc crew was said to have surprised a number of German planes landing in a flare-lighted path. At the third, it said, a Havoc bombed a flare-

Governor, El Heads Mum on Power Parley

Gov. Saltonstall and Boston Elevated trustees today had "no comment" following a conference on a proposed abandonment of the Elevated's generating plants and purchase of power from the Boston Edison Co.

Those who conferred included Gov. Saltonstall, Trustee Edward E. Whiting and Willis B. Downey, counsel for the trustees.

Britain Sees Nazi-Red Break Nearer

le may have designs upon the ginary of the Ukraine and the oil fields of the Caucasus.

But from other sources have come reports of German plans for an eventual clash with Russia, which if successful from the Nazi viewpoint would give Hitler sufficient materials to wage war almost forever.

Here are a few of these:

This a German staff colonel sent to Russia on a tour of inspection reported back to Berlin that 50 panzer divisions totaling some half million men could assure victory over the Soviet Union.

That Germany is convinced the Soviet army is of low morale and its tanks, planes and war material defective, rendering them quickly useless on a modern battlefield.

That Germany is making extensive preparations in East Prussia as well as Finland. One report says that Hitler has massed 200,000 men in the Tannenberg area, site of the decisive Russo-German clash in the last war.

That Helsinki, Petsamo and other Finnish cities are over-loaded with Nazi military men and so-called "tourists."

That tens of thousands of workers are laboring night and day on military works and fortifications along the Russo-German border in Poland.

NAZIS ON POLISH BORDER

Refugees reaching London have frequently reported heavy German troop concentrations along the Polish border, while strategic railway lines and highways are being built through former Czechoslovakia.

In connection with all of this some sources in London attach great importance to the decision of Rumanian Premier Gen. Ion Antonescu to release imprisoned members of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard. He took this step under German pressure, it was said, enabling Germany to tighten her grasp upon Rumania and insure the Nazi army possession of Rumanian bases for the move east.

If it is true that the Royal Air Force has rendered German industry and agricultural production precarious, one source declared, the Caucasus and the Ukraine would naturally figure in an eventual German plan to make rich south Russia "the arsenal of the dictators."

It was stressed, however, that it would be a mistake to assume that arrival of the German forces in Finland means war between Soviet Russia and Germany.

12,000 "LITTLE TOO MANY"

It was emphasized that for a long time Finland has been allowing German troops to pass through to the northern port of Petsamo, en route to Norway.

The Germans have been passing through Finland with the full knowledge of the Soviets.

In addition, it also is known that a few hundred German troops have been stationed in Finland to assist in the work of transporting these troops.

But the Soviet informant declared that today's Moscow announcement was intended to serve as a warning that 12,000 troops is a "little too many" to transport at one time.

Berlin Claims U-Boats Sink 35,265 Tons More

BERLIN, April 30 (AP)—Sinking of 35,265 tons of British merchant shipping space from "strongly protected convoys" and one of the convoying vessels of the British navy was credited today to German U-boats by the high command.

Speedboats thrusting against the British southeast coast yesterday also attacked another "strongly protected" convoy and sank three merchantmen totaling 9600 tons, said the daily communicue. The air force was credited with sinking a 4000-ton merchantman in the region of England and with damaging a larger ship.

SUBS IN TRIAL RUNS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., April 30 —The Navy's crack submarines today began trial days of trial runs off the Isle of Shoals. It was revealed in warnings issued from Washington, Coastal shipping was warned to "navigate with caution."

SOVIET BARS WAR SUPPLIES TO GERMANY

MOSCOW, April 30 (INS)—Evidently seeking to cut off one of Germany's chief sources of war supplies, the Soviet government today prohibited transit of war materials through the U. S. S. R.

Some British quarters regarded the new Soviet decree as a retaliatory move for Germany's occupation of the Balkans.

A decree signed by A. I. Mikoyan, foreign trade commissar, prohibited shipment across Russian territory of all munitions, aircraft, airplane parts, machine tools for manufacture of munitions, explosives and poisons.

SPECIAL AUTHORITY

Shipments of other goods will be permitted only under special authorization or under terms of trade agreements, it was announced.

The Russian ban on shipments of war materials followed repeated charges by Britain that huge quantities of goods useful in war-time were being shipped to Germany via Vladivostok.

Simultaneously, the Moscow radio warned the people of the Soviet Union to be ready for a military attack. This warning followed delayed publication of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech in Moscow newspapers.

The Moscow radio broadcast recalled Dictator Josef Stalin's warning regarding the necessity of maintaining a state of readiness and even of mobilization.

It added:

STATE OF READINESS

"The whole nation must be kept in a state of readiness in the face of danger of military attack, so that neither chance nor tricks by our external enemies should take us by surprise.

"Every day, international developments show with convincing evidence what a difficult position a state gets into when it is not militarily prepared."

Navy Bars Ships' Names on Gobs' Hats

As a precautionary measure against possible subversive activities, Uncle Sam has scrapped an old custom—that of identifying a gob's ship through the ribbon on his hat.

All such ribbons now bear the simple designation, "U. S. Navy," instead of the name of the ship.

Our Austen Lake in England

By AUSTEN LAKE
Staff Reporter, Boston American
(Copyright, 1941)

LONDON, April.—An appearance of "pastoral peace lay over the English countryside as we motored from London. A winter-sleepy sun was awakening with bold brightness." It was a blue-and-gold day in which spring with all its vernal freshness was blessing an age-old land. Infant lambs with grotesque, knobby-knees nibbled beside maternal ewes. Ravens wheeled over woods that were thickly brown with swelling buds. Growing greens sprouted in moist furrows. The yellow furze was blossoming and the scene was one of fresh-washed calm.

It was deceiving! For yonder haycock, innocently capped by a waterproof canvas, concealed an anti-tank cannon, its straw-thatched sides hiding a hollow concrete pillbox. The side of that picturesque, Elizabethan farmhouse which commanded a sweep of open road, was false with walls that were collapsible.

SHOP A PLANT

That little antique shop on the outskirts of a village with its dusty windows full of fascinating junk, was a "plant." No one stopped to inspect its brass warming pans, old lamp bases and ancient glass. For the door was closed and three soldiers sat sunning themselves on an open bench.

England, with its talent for dry humor, enjoys its little game of concealment. For almost everyone, including London's resident Nazi agents, undoubtedly knows where and what these camouflaged emplacements are. Indeed I made a foolish error in downtown London recently, where there was an invisible looking bookstall on the edge of a park, complete with rows of paper-jacketed volumes and piles of journals. Ads of the latest literature were pasted on its boards.

NOT OPEN TODAY

So, needing a map, I turned absently toward the timbered door where a soldier lounged. He took a pipe from his mouth, grinned quizzically and said, "Sorry, old man. We're not open for business today. He didn't say any more, but I knew that he would be open as an anti-aircraft battery, with sliding roof shunted back and pumping shrapnel at Nazi raiders.

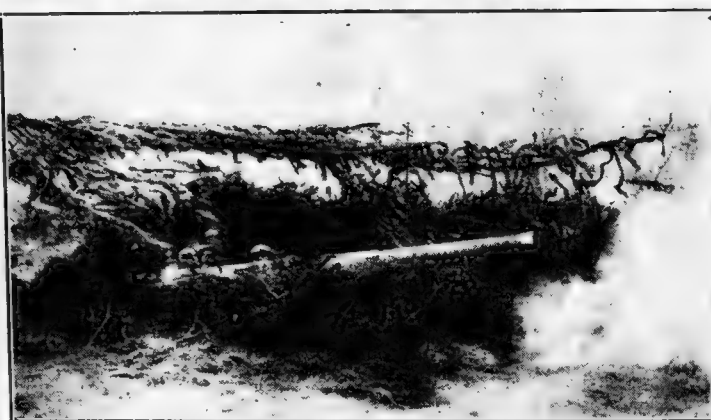

Stretching out from London as the interlaced tendrils of a great spider web, England's defense system is ready and waiting for Nazi invasion, an astonishingly ingenious job which begins in the heart of the city and runs in concentric circles to its coasts. It resembles a macabre, unwilling host with a lethal party prepared and waiting for the unwanted but insistent guest.

As we rolled through London's suburbs on a wide, military-made concrete apron, there were miles of smudge pots set beside munition factories, ready for instant lighting and the creation of a thick, viscous fog. No night raider has pierced that smelly shield.

TANK TRAPS

There were steel pylons set at intervals along the way with cables stretched tightly overhead, devices to prevent Nazi transport planes from landing with troops and equipment. Intwined ditches, 10 feet wide and filled with water, cut across pastures and meadows dressed with wedge-shaped, cement blocks, creating narrow, bottle-neck approaches where subterranean mines were planted and ready for instant detonation.

Little century-old bridges were covered with high explosives. Every field of fire was commanded by machine gun and artillery shrewdly hidden with a woody copse or behind some wall. As my military companion explained it, it seemed a creepy business in the midst of a banishment. England hides its soldiers well, too, for there untold thousands of troops spotted around the countryside, intermeshed humanity and material which is concealed in farmsteads, hideaway, humbles and shield hollows. Thus the traditional, out-of-door type of Englishman which novelists like to depict as striding across meadows, the wind in his lungs, pipe in his mouth and favorite hound at his heels, doesn't wander aimlessly any more.

DEFENDING LONDON—"Stretching out from London as the interlaced tendrils of a great spider web, England's defense system is ready and waiting for Nazi invasion, an astonishingly ingenious job which begins in the heart of the city and runs in concentric circles to its coast."

PEOPLE DON'T WANDER

He'd better not! If he did, far enough from the beaten highways, a century in mustard battle dress, a jut to his jaw and a bayonet on his Enfield rifle would warn him curly or grab him for the corporal of the guard. Uncertified people don't wander any more.

This network of defense, as I was shown it, radiates solidly from the London core. Not that intelligent opinion expects that the Nazi, if he has the tenacity to invade, will be able to penetrate these inland areas in any force—except perhaps in isolated units of miniature tanks and troops parachuted behind the lines. But England recalls with a shudder that it lost 300,000 battle suits in France last year, field uniforms which resemble modified ski suits and which the Nazi Command, characteristically, would not hesitate to use to disguise its own troops in time of action.

Thus, let a swarm of bogus Tommies come floating from the sky and organize behind British lines, each English command though England is equipped with sets of colored arm bands which, if action comes, will be changed daily by secret order. And was betide the soldier on English soil who appears with an armlet of the wrong color. His shirt would be shot.

NORMAL TENOR

Otherwise I found that country life in England follows the normal tenor of its pre-war time. The husbandman tends his swine, milks his cows, kills his pig, gathers his sheaves. The farm wife churns her curds, bakes her buns, helps with the crops. The military, as I saw them, might occupy the hayloft and park their lethal machinery in the orchard or under a wall. The fowls in the henhouse may be turned out to billet a detachment of artillerymen.

The woodshed may be a store-room for ammunition. But between seed-time and harvest the farmer goes his stolid rounds while his soldier tenants go through their military convolutions, and—was for what? Indeed Britain, deep seated in the inside of its soul, doesn't think the Nazi will invade on two specific counts (1) that the toll in Nazi life would be terrific; (2) that Hitler cannot risk a failure which would have such repercussions at home.

Oddly I found that an enormous number of Nazi bombs have fallen in the open country, many miles from the outskirts of London, some of them on most unexpected spots. Thus we passed a golf course, 20 miles from the city, where bomb pits sprinkled the fairway and afforded extra-curricular hazards for the players. And beyond that were craters in a freshly plowed field, and more in open pasture—as though the raiders, in a frenzy to be rid of their obnoxious loads, had jettisoned them indiscriminately and hustled off for home.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, Austen Lake continues his graphic account of how England conducts her war.

CANADIANS' INCOME TAXES ARE MORE THAN DOUBLED

OTTAWA, April 30 (AP)—Canadians in the lower income brackets will pay, beginning today, more than doubled income taxes in the most drastic and far-reaching tax program ever proposed in the Dominion.

In his budget message to the House of Commons yesterday, Finance Minister J. L. Halsey asked the provinces to turn over the fields of income and corporation taxation to the Dominion for the duration of the war.

The new tax schedule went into effect today, although some of its sections may yet be debated pending the necessary final approval by the House of Commons, which alone holds the power to tax. Halsey estimated that increased and new taxes would produce an additional $300,000,000 revenue during the next fiscal year.

A sum of about $120,000,000 will have to be borrowed from the people, he said, to cover an anticipated internal deficit and to cover Britain's adverse balance with Canada. The personal income tax rates, effective today, will start at 15 per cent for the first taxable $1000 and increase by 5 per cent for each additional $1000. Exemptions are $700 for single and $1250 for married persons.

The national defense tax will be five per cent for persons who previously paid two, and seven per cent for those who paid three. The increase will become effective July 1.

Government figures showed a single person earning $3000 a year would pay $622.50 combined income and defense taxes. Automobile sales taxes were raised from 20 to 25 per cent on values up to $900.

Other imposts listed by the finance minister were: A 22 per cent excess profits tax, corporation taxes to start at 40 per cent, 20 per cent tax on motion picture admissions and 5 per cent on race track wagers, 10 per cent on railroad, airplane and bus tickets, new inheritance levies, 25 per cent on cosmetics, a 10 per cent increase on long distance telephone tolls, 15 per cent on playing cards, higher levies on interest and dividends payable outside Canada and a 1 cent a pound increase in the sugar tax.

Nazis Claim 47 Planes in 2 Days

BERLIN, April 30 (AP)—Germany claimed today destruction of 47 "enemy" planes in the past two days and told of a destructive harassing aerial sweep reaching over Malta in the Mediterranean and England and her shipping lanes.

Acknowledging loss of only six German planes in that period, the supreme command said 21 of the 47 planes were downed in air fighting, nine by naval artillery and the remainder aground.

Plymouth Evacuation Starts, Mannheim Pounded by RAF

LONDON, April 30 (INS)—Huge sections of Plymouth were being evacuated of their populations today as rescue workers dug into block after block of rubble for more dead and wounded in the wake of last night's terrific Nazi bombing raid of that important southwest coast seaport and naval base.

Section after section of the city already having been devastated by Nazi planes and thousands of persons having fled of their own accord, most of the city was formally declared an "evacuation area" by British officials.

School children, the aged and ill were the first to be ordered to leave.

Attempts were being made to find lodgings of any sort for those still remaining and also to establish emergency feeding stations.

Last night's German raid, the second nightly visitation in succession, was one of the fiercest Plymouth has suffered.

FEAR MANY KILLED
British bombers last night lashed on at the German industrial city of Mannheim while Plymouth was being pounded.

The air ministry said a "large number of persons were killed" in Plymouth and late reports revealed that many families were still entombed under the wreckage of their homes.

While the intense night raid was in progress a terrific anti-aircraft barrage shook the region. The raiders illuminated the city with hundreds of flares and then damped incendiary and high explosive bombs on a wide area, demolishing homes, shops and other buildings.

Seven German raiders were shot down during the night, it was announced.

BLAST MANNHEIM
Authorities revealed the British attack on Mannheim was carried out by a large force of bombers and that many bombs were dropped, including those of the latest and most powerful type. Large fires were started, it was declared.

Other British planes attacked oil storage depots at Rotterdam. One British plane was lost.

During daylight yesterday British planes carried out many attacks on shipping, setting fire to one 5000-ton supply ship and damaging others, it was claimed.

The Berlin communique admitted that RAF planes penetrated southern Germany, but said that while civilians were killed and injured and apartment houses damaged and destroyed, no military damage was done.

EVACUATE PLYMOUTH
The attacks by Nazi raiders on the southwest were renewed after representatives of the Ministry of Health met the Plymouth emergency committee and agreed a large part of that bomb-blasted city should be classed as an "evacuation area" as a result of the widespread devastation caused by recent raids.

NOW IT'S LIGHTER! IT'S CRISPER! DON'T FAIL TO TRY THE IMPROVED "GOLDEN SOFT" KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

NOW YOU'LL ENJOY JOINING THE "REGULARS"

THE CEREAL that helps so many Americans keep "regular" is now a regular treat!

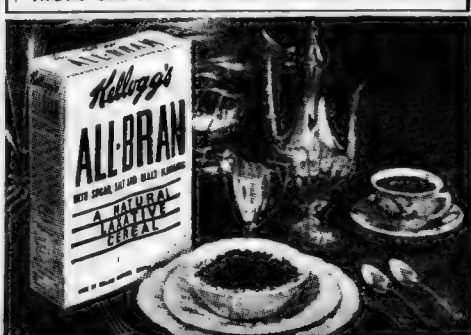

IT'S DOUBLY DELICIOUS! It's made of finer quality bran from one of the world's softest wheats. Bright as shreds of gold, ALL-BRAN is now lighter, crisper! Try it tomorrow.

For years you've known KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN as a natural laxative cereal. Now try it also for its delicious taste. Kellogg grain buyers have discovered an extra-soft wheat that produces a bran of exceptional quality.

Put through Kellogg's toasting ovens, this bran came out bright as gold, and lighter, crisper, more delicious than any we had used in 20 years of making ALL-BRAN.

And now the improved ALL-BRAN is at your grocer's. If you or other members of your family are troubled with constipation due to lack of proper "bulk" in the diet, try this better ALL-BRAN. It is just as effective as ever. Eat it daily and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

DR. AND MRS. John P. Monks glided their way to the title of Boston's outstanding waltzers at the final Waltz Party of the winter series, held at the Hotel Somerset last evening. . . . Members of the unusually large crowd which filled the large Louis XIV Ballroom so well that tables were set on the balcony and in the Blue foyer, formed a large circle around the dance floor to watch the most adept waltzers battle it out for the title. . . .

First the champion couple of last evening's crowd was chosen by elimination. . . . then the champs of previous parties met in a grand finale. . . . Dr. and Mrs. Monks, who won last night's elimination walked, or rather danced away with the grand prizes (two bottles of champagne) as well. . . .

A combination of the expert judging of Cornelia Otis Skinner and the cheers and applause of the assembled gathering finally decided between the three couples left after a long elimination. . . . Dorothy Comstock and Anne Phillips and their partners were runners up. . . .

Miss Skinner, accompanied by Arthur Margetson and Margaret Bannerman, who are playing with her in "Theatre," wore a black lace tunic gown with pearls and diamonds. . . . Mrs. Monks swirled and glided in a full skirted tulle gown made of panels of raisin and green. . . .

New Note in Men's Fashions

THE PARTY INTRODUCED a radically new note in men's fashions, which is something that happens only once in a dog's age. . . . The Waltz Parties are very swank affairs with ladies in their most glamorous gowns and a great many of the men in white tie and tails. . . . so the arriving guests were, to say the least, surprised when they saw half a dozen well known men about town dancing in their shirt sleeves. . . . looking at first glance as though they had taken off their tail coats and left them over their chairs. . . .

But these particular shirts, we are told, are not supposed to be worn with a coat. . . . They are sufficient unto themselves along with a pair of black trousers and a cummerbund. . . . The front is pleated, the neckline is made into a sort of white stock, the sleeves are full and gathered, and they are fastened down the back with a zipper. . . . Hamilton Warren, Dwight Robinson and Harold Baptiste were among the dancers sporting the new style. . . .

As for the other dancers none looked more radiant than the newly engaged Ernesta Rueter who attended with her fiancé, Tom Lacey. . . . Her white lace gown was adorned with a necklace of bright pink carnations and she carried a muf of the same fragrant flowers. . . .

POST DEB PATRICIA BAYNE of Westwood and Tommy Boynton of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Harvard University, compare notes on waltzing between dances at last evening's Waltz Party at the Hotel Somerset.

MARY SWAIN ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Howland Swain of Ipswich announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Alice Swain, to Russell Burdige, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burdige of Beverly Farms.

The future bride was educated in the South. Mr. Burdige, who attended Noble and Greenough School and Trinity College, is with the 101st Artillery at Camp Edwards.

A New Figure for Spring

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Probably the most popular feminine conception of economy is to spend a trifle more than the budget allows for a frock "because it is an advanced style and will be every bit as good next year." Well, how about your favorite last year's frock?

If it has a "funny fit," perhaps your figure has changed. You may require a whole size larger—in places, at least—and without having put on a pound of weight.

A measurement gain is most conspicuous at the waist and hips. The waistline settles and thickens and the hips may spread just from sitting eight hours a day.

Keeping your figure is largely a matter of muscle tone. Oddly enough, well-toned muscle weighs more than flabby tissue, but it is compact and takes up little space, whereas the flabby tissue is bulky and shapeless. If you condition your waistline muscles and the large gluteus maximum on the back of the hip, you can trim your measurements without counting calories.

Let's begin on that waistline. Stand on your knees on the floor, knees about 12 inches apart, with arms out at the sides, shoulder level. First, pull elm through the middle. Then, keeping the arms straight and the hips in line, dip to the left and try to touch fingers to floor. Straighten up, and dip to the right. Keep that up for 10 counts, then flop down and relax for a minute.

Now for the hips. Stand up in a doorway, with hands grasping the door frame at either side, and swing first one leg, then the other, up in front and out in back. Work up a good rhythm, up and back, for 50 counts, before transferring the action to the other leg. Of course, the hip muscles are supposed to do the work.

Cooking Easy Dishes For Spring

By MARTHA LEW

AS SPRING gets into full swing to the accompaniment of bird song and warm sunshine, the great outdoors beckons to all of us. And homemakers are tempted by blossoming gardens and the blooming countryside to make short work of cooking so they may share in the beauty of spring days.

Simplifying luncheon and dinner, or dinner and supper, is easy enough when a few tricks are practiced.

Those new green asparagus shoots served on crisp toast covered with Hollandaise sauce make a one-dish meal. Serve cookies and pink rhubarb sauce for dessert.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter
4 well-beaten egg yolks
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup boiling water
1 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
Melt butter in double boiler. Gradually add to egg yolks, stirring thoroughly. Add water gradually. Return to double boiler; cook, stirring constantly until thick. Remove from hot water; slowly add lemon juice and salt, stirring constantly. Cover and place over hot water until serving time, but don't return to heat. Serve with cooked artichokes, asparagus, spinach, broccoli, Brussels sprouts. Makes 6 servings.

RHUBARB SAUCE

2 lbs. rhubarb
1 cup sugar
Select firm unbruised rhubarb; cut off leaves and stem ends of stalks. Wash and cut in 1-inch pieces. Place rhubarb with sugar in top of double boiler and cook, covered, over hot water, until rhubarb is soft. Add more sugar if rhubarb is very tart. Makes 6 servings.

To make the main dish a bit more substantial, add some diced hard-cooked eggs to a medium white sauce and serve over cooked asparagus on toast.

Still another idea is to roll cooked asparagus in thin ham slices; broil and serve on toast with medium white sauce to which grated cheese has been added.

Another springtime menu that scores A-1 for ease of preparation, for appetite appeal, for flavor, and for economy, is bacon sandwiches with scrambled eggs and new greens. Fruit compote with plain cake make the dessert. And to add extra food value, those things inspirational speakers used to call "plus values," let the bread in the menu be the new enriched bread.

Idea for good spring eating seem to be racing through our brain today, and we want to give you as many as space will permit.

CHEESE AND EGG SHORTPIE

8 slices toast
1 hard cooked egg
2 cups cheese sauce
Parsley for garnishing
Allow 2 slices toast for each serving. Place 1 slice on plate, cover with sliced egg. Reserve 2 eggs for garnish. Pour cheese sauce over egg. Cover with second slice of toast, and sliced eggs. Pour remaining cheese sauce over. Garnish each "pie" with sliced egg, dash of paprika, and parsley or watercress.

CHEESE SAUCE

3 tbsp. butter or margarine
3 tbsp. flour
2 cups milk
 $\frac{1}{4}$ lb. cheese
Salt and pepper
Melt butter in saucepan, add flour, stirring until smooth. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. When thickened, add cheese and seasonings. When cheese is melted, serve over toast and eggs.

FRENCH TOAST SANDWICHES

3 eggs
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
12 thin slices day-old bread
Peanut butter
Beat eggs, add milk, salt, and sugar. Spread bread with peanut butter and put two pieces together sandwich fashion. Dip each sandwich into egg and milk mixture and fry in butter. Brown on both sides. Serve with rhubarb marmalade or fresh strawberry jam.

Smart Set Fashions Polka Dots in the Sunlight

YOU MAY have your polka dots in the moonlight, too, if you will . . . but they're just unbeatable as a neat, crisp print for all the hours of sunlight. Here's a wonderful little frock, a combination of polka dots and ribbon stripes, which will go anywhere . . . with a tailored hat to town, with a cartwheel to the races. Stripes figure boldly in the blouse, show discreetly in Venetian blind fashion when skirt pleats swing into motion. A tucked bodice is smart.

You Can Be Beautiful A New Kind of Shampoo

By ARLINE GOULD

THERE'S A THRILLING EXPERIENCE ahead of you . . . that'll turn out a thrilling head of hair for you . . . gleaming as it never did before, silken-soft . . . for you're going to succumb to an "orchid among shampoos" . . . a fragrant, whipped-cream affair which is new in every possible way!

For one thing, it's in cream form . . . incredibly light and fluffy, it's made of solids of milk . . . it comes in a long, white tube with an orchid cap . . . and it's boxed in cellophane as though it were a precious flower. This is the first time, to our knowledge, that solids of milk have been converted to such wonderful reconditioning use for the scalp!

The only thing that's not orchidaceous about it is the price . . . for a dollar you'll get many, many shampoos out of the giant tube . . . and your hair will be healthier, cleaner, livelier for it!

You're told that it's made quite differently from any other . . . and you'll be convinced of it when you see this amazing, snowy-white substance. There are very explicit directions which you'll follow carefully . . . explicit but simple.

Moisten your hair with as hot water as you can "take"; then squeeze some of the rich cream into your wet palms. Rub up a heaping, handful of lather . . . it won't take a second! And then massage it through your moistened hair and into your scalp.

The more you massage . . . the better. This is quite different from rubbing as though you were trying to rub the skin off in layers. Knead the milk solids foam into the respective scalp tissues. Wash the lather off with tepid water, repeat the massage with the suds; and when you rinse don't stop at the second rinsing . . . go on to four or five!

If you'd like further information on this wonderful new "solids of milk" creamy shampoo, phone Arline Gould, LLBerty 4000, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DO MEN make the wars? And would women stop them if they could have their way?

Elsie Robinson, writer of that powerful column, "Listen, World!" asks these questions in today's Evening American.

ELSIE ROBINSON
"Do men make the wars?"

"Difficulties could then be adjusted peacefully and necessary compromises made."

We wonder.

We wonder especially what the women of Massachusetts are doing to stop war.

We wonder more than anything else what they are doing to stop America's imminent entry into the current European war.

IN BOSTON ALONE we have what is probably the greatest assortment of women's clubs and organizations in the entire United States.

Affiliated with the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs are such groups as:

The Art Lovers' Club of Greater Boston.

Board of Directors of Frances E. Willard Settlement.

Boston Eastern Star Women's Club.

The Daughters of Massachusetts.

Greater Boston Woman's Auxiliary to the Railway Mail Association.

Harvard Woman's Club of Boston.

Ladies' Physiological Institute.

League of Women for Community Service.

Massachusetts Association of Savings Bank Women.

Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

Massachusetts Maine Daughters.

Mattapamuck Woman's Club.

The Mothercraft Club.

National League of American Pen Women.

Professional Women's Club.

Service Star Legion.

South Bay Sorosis.

South End Women's Club.

Wednesday Morning Club.

Woman's Charity Club.

Boston Woman's Civic Club and many others.

We have twenty-eight patriotic societies.

We have sixty-two veterans' associations, many of which admit women to membership.

We have three hundred and seventy-three churches and temples, in which women are active.

We have women legislators, women judges, women directors of public and private corporations, women doctors, women lawyers and women authors.

What, if anything, are these women doing to stop America's involvement in the foreign war?

ARE OUR MOTHERS, wives and sisters as responsible for war as Miss Robinson says they are?

It is true that the seeds of war are in some women's hearts, regardless of their sex or occupation?

Probably our Boston women will speak out more emphatically.

Probably they will accept Miss Robinson's challenge and, individually and collectively, say what they want the United States to do in this crisis.

We would like to hear from women, particularly from those who have definite opinions concerning the sacrifice of millions of lives in the bloodshed abroad.

So, also, would millions of other American men, including hesitant Congressmen and Senators in Washington.

The Talk of Boston by Pauline Warren

SOMETIME IN JUNE there will be let loose upon the world a collection of Hasty Pudding men from Harvard who ought to be snapped up by anyone looking for embryonic Dexter Fellowes, most famed of circus press agents.

This year the leading lady of the show was Robert Coleman, suave Spee Club member, who looked pretty devastating in his wig of long curls, glamorous satin gown and satin sandals (size 10). Bob took the usual kidding about his role very well and was very conscientious about the whole thing—punctual at every rehearsal, submitting good-naturedly to glamorizing make-up, learning his songs and practicing his dancing endlessly.

Reasonably enough, he took it for granted this was all he would be required to do. But no! The publicity boys decided to give him an omph campaign that would out-Sheridan Anne herself.

Among other things, they divulged to newswriters the romantic attachment between Bob and Leila Ernst, the little glamorous girl from Boston, on whom George Abbot, the producer, has placed a great big bet as a star-in-the-making.

SOON NEWS began to creep in the press about the Ernst-Coleman romance, causing everyone in Brookline, Leila's home, to wonder if the golden child was really truly engaged.

As these rumors grew, Mr. Coleman found himself in an embarrassing situation. Leila, being in Hollywood, had released nothing on their romance. And gentlemen are just not supposed to tell these things.

Wondering what all this had done to their romance, we investigated. Leila, as you may know, is playing in "Pal Joey," the current Broadway hit, bringing her that much nearer to Harvard.

Well—what a romance! Miss Ernst and Mr. Bob Coleman have never even met, thank you, and now that the Hasty Pudding boys are through with them, having garnered all the publicity they needed for their last show, they're not sure they want to.

THE ACCOMPANYING picture of Leila with Mary Brian, the movie star, reminds us of the last broadcast we did with Mary. Ordinarily she's a darling; never late at rehearsals and amenable to suggestions. But this particular Sunday we were presenting her with Hoagy Carmichael, the song writer, who was to play and sing his "Star Dust" and that "young gentleman of swing," Johnny Mercer, who was also to sing some of his songs.

Rehearsal time arrived and no Mary, Hoagy or Johnny were in evidence. Wildly, we telephoned their hotel. No—they had already left there, bound for the studio. Where could they be? Hurt in a taxi accident?

As the clock crept nearer broadcast time, we had a sudden inspiration, remembering Mary's failing for listening to reminiscences.

Where did we find them?

Sitting with Bob Berger, listening enthralled to Bob, whose theatrical friends are legion, telling them how he once kept Kate Smith from throwing up her job in the first show in which she later became a hit.

The broadcast was a nightmare of ad libbing, but the studio audience, entranced, simply wouldn't leave when it was over, begging and begging for more.

They got it, too—Hoagy stayed on and played his songs well into the afternoon, for a group of young pretty sixteen-year-old soporific girls who now worship the ground he walks on.

MARY BRIAN AND LEILA ERNST
Miss Ernst, Boston girl, now appearing in "Pal Joey," current Broadway hit, reported heroine in strange romance.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

DO MEN MAKE THE WARS? AND WOULD WOMEN STOP THEM IF THEY COULD HAVE THEIR WAY?

Louise Anderson, of 744 East Fillmore st., Phoenix, Ariz., believes they do—and they could.

"Since women came out of the obscurity of their kitchens," says she, "they have demonstrated fully and conclusively that they can do any task a man can do, except a few requiring great physical strength. But how much more have women when war is declared, though they bear the heaviest brunt of it."

"Males love to fight. Watch two kindergarten tads flying at each other with their tiny fists. War is the grown-up equivalent of the same urge. It is a male game."

"MEN HAVE HAD THEIR DAY. THEIR WAY HAS PROVED A FAILURE. THEY SHOULD SIT BACK NOW AND ALLOW A CONGRESS OF WOMEN FROM ALL NATIONS TO MEET AND STATE IN SIMPLE TERMS WHAT EACH NATION WANTS. DIFFICULTIES COULD BE ADJUSTED PEACEFULLY AND NECESSARY COMPROMISES MADE."

IT'S A LOVELY picture, Louise, and I'm all for it. But I'm afraid I can't share your faith in our sex. I'll admit men like to scrap and we women are all heartily sick of the consequences. But that doesn't put us in the Dove of Peace class—not by a million olive leaves. To the contrary, all history's dreary evidence goes to prove the ladies carry a larrup peculiarly their own and fully as potent as the males'.

We may not square off at each other with our fists, though I've seen it done with much mutual satisfaction. But a couple of Beautiful Dolls can cut each other into ribbons faster with a few holed phrases than a Gang Mob could with a flock of machine guns.

THE TRUTH is that the seeds of war are in our own hearts, regardless of our sex or occupation. And war is only one of their manifestations.

As long as we envy, as long as we cheat and covet, as long as we permit poverty and stupidity and feasting hate in our midst, there will be war. Every atom is as surely a sign of war as every canon.

There's only one cure for it all. Maybe some day we'll grow old enough to try it. It's love.

The Campbell Girl

"This apartment's all right, dear, but the calls are so thin that when we have a fight the neighbors will hear us."

LORD HALIFAX—Howard Christie, of the RAF, who holds two decorations—he was shot down twice in one day, in the September fight above London—revealed this story at El Morocco: When he arrived in New York, he lunched with an old classmate of his—and discovered that the classmate now is attached to the German consulate here. "We just had a couple of beers, anyway," said Christie . . . He also related that when he was in a London hospital, the patient in the next bed was the Nazi airman he had brought down. The Nazi refused to talk to him, until he learned that Christie held the same rank he did. Then they chatted amicably.

WILLIAM H. STONEMAN—John Steinbeck, who was scheduled to go to London, has changed his mind. Steinbeck says that there already are too many writers in London now . . . J. P. MORGAN—Tin Pan Alcy is invading your district. Richard Kellman's new music-publishing firm, Musicana, Inc., will have its offices at 1 Wall St. ALLYN JOSLYN—You'd better be nice to Walter Wagner, your understudy in "Arsenic and Old Lace." He's one of your bosses—he owns a piece of the show . . . W. W.—At last the proper sphere has been found for the writers of New York columns—writing Fairy Tales. Ben Becht, the columnist, will make the adaptation of "Hans Christian Andersen's Fairy Tales" for Walt Disney.

TOMMY CORCORAN—Are you trying to bring Ed Noble—the ex-Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who quit to support Wilkie—back into the government? . . . MAYOR LAGUARDIA—Howard Lindsay and Dorothy Dickney haven't benefited from your anti-noise campaign. They've had to move four times because each time a construction gang began erecting a new building next door. When they invited Russel Crouse to their home and Crouse asked directions, Dorothy said: "Just listen for the loudest noise—and go next door."

ON the SIDE

by E. V. DURLING

HEARD of a 16-year-old door-to-door brush salesman, who earns $75 a week. He looks something like Robert Taylor. It appears in selling to feminine clients the tall, tan and terrific salesman has a tremendous advantage . . . Victory, Wis., is named in honor of the defeat of the Black Hawk Indians in that vicinity. I don't know how Walla Walla, Wash.; Ypsilanti, Mich., or Smackover, Ark., got their names . . . Appears as if it won't be long now before we will be splitting our income fifty-fifty with our Uncle Sammy. The constantly receding demands for more money from U. S. taxpayers for the defense budget and a multitude of other budgets reminds me of that song "The Man with an Elephant on His Hands," which went in part:

For that elephant ate all night,
And that elephant ate all day;
Do what he could to furnish him feed
The cry was still the same

YOUNG GENTLEMAN of Wisconsin sought a divorce on the grounds that the figure of the girl he married was not what he had been led to believe. Seemingly the woman utilized some of the Hollywood methods in building up "Gomph" girls. Let the experience of this man be a lesson to you, young fellow. Do not propose marriage until you see the girl of your dreams in a bathing suit. Preferable one of those suits described by the slogan: "The less suit, the more sun."

ALL TOO OFTEN places, people and things do not measure up to what we have heard of them. However, among the livers-up-to-advance notices are the steaks of Kansas City, the Puget Sound sunset, the girls of San Francisco, Charlie Howard's horses, the beer in Milwaukee, the sea food in Baltimore, the singing of Kirsten Flagstad, the cigars of Havana and the 1941 automobiles . . . Stephen Collins Foster, who wrote "My Old Kentucky Home," was from Pittsburgh, Pa.; George M. Cohan, who wrote "Give My Regards to Broadway," is from Providence, R. I., and Al Dubin, who wrote "I Feel Like a Feather in the Breeze," weighs 260 pounds. And so life proceeds.

ARE YOU from Illinois? Have a couple of fancy facts on me. Roses grown in Illinois are sold in California. Some of these Illinois roses are used in California rose parades. The purest water in Illinois is found at Peoria. Lincoln, Ill., was the first of 24 cities of that name, though Lincoln, Neb., is the most successful of towns named after "Honest Abe" . . . In the latest edition of "Inside Europe," John Gunther said: "The Yugo-Slav Army is the best army in Europe." But John shouldn't feel too badly about this. In 1939, a lot of experts were saying the French Army was the best army in Europe. That was before the Nazis introduced "The 30 miles an hour war." However, it is encouraging to know the United States military experts are preparing an offense and defense based on war fought in 1941 and not as was fought in 1918.

MY DAY

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Tuesday—Yesterday we lunched with Mr. Herman Lissauer and the board members of the modern forum. I talked for a few minutes with a representative of the Y. M. C. A. who is considering some youth broadcasts.

In the afternoon, the members of the National Youth Administration advisory committee met here and the N. Y. A. Symphony Orchestra played for us on the patio in back of the house. The way the young musicians coped with the wayward wind, which came up and blew their music around, inspired everyone's admiration.

Gov. Olson of California spent a little while with us, so the young people had a chance to meet him. I was particularly touched at his taking the time to come during such a busy period.

It is fortunate that we are not flying today for the skies are gray and I am afraid that over the mountains it would be foggy.

EVERYONE seems happy in this household. The children feel as much responsibility about making the guests feel at home as do their elders. Yesterday afternoon, Peter, aged seven, brought me a gardenia with a most charming card attached.

Mr. Melvyn Douglas breakfasts at eight and is off to the studio long before nine. He worked again all evening. So many of us think that artists' lives are easy, but to create entertainment for our hours of ease requires much hard work behind the scenes.

Los Angeles is a friendly city and it was nice to have a word with so many people as I went in and out for my lecture last night. I shook hands with as many people as I could in passing by. The mere expression on their faces showed that they felt kindly toward me.

JUDY GRADUATES TO OLDER ROLE

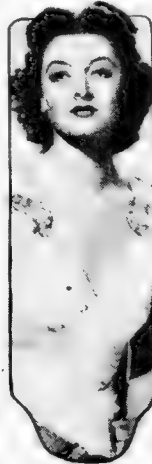

By Louella O. Parsons

Judy Garland

HOLLYWOOD, April 30—Judy Garland from now on will step out of the little girl roles and assume the status of a grown woman with all the romance experience and glamour of any of M-G-M's other female stars. Her romance in real life with Dave Rose has made not only the studio but all the movie fans conscious that Judy is growing up. So her first prize package as a glamour girl will be "As Thousands Cheer" the Irving Berlin-Moss Hart musical. She'll be starred in it after she finishes "Babes on Broadway" with her favorite movie partner, Mickey Rooney.

Speaking of Mickey he is doing some growing up himself and carrying a torch for Linda Darnell as big as a light-house. He actually wanted to slip an engagement ring on her finger but the lady said "no" at least for the time being. The Deanna Durbin-Vaughn Paul wedding seems to have started all sorts of marriage rumors in the juvenile set including Mickey and Linda. Judy and Dave Rose and Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville. But really all such youngsters they can afford to wait awhile.

MYRNA LOY

WHILE MYRNA LOY and Arthur Hornblow are vacationing in New York her movie sidekick, Bill Powell and Diana Lewis will arrive there in time to see some of the new shows with them. Judging from the way M-G-M is rushing a new script for Myrna and Bill I'd say they'd better have fun while they can. The minute they return they go into "Shadow of the Thin Man" another one of the Mr. and Mrs. detective yarns so popular with the fans.

There was a time when Myrna and Arthur Hornblow were repatriated that Metro was thinking of calling off this series because of the kickback in the "perfect wife" advertising—but that's all a thing of the past now. Myrna Le Roy is set to direct "Shadow of the Thin Man" with Hunt Stromberg producing.

MARLENE DIETRICH is having a time for herself with that psychometer discovered by Professor Joseph Catron for measuring emotion. When a San Francisco State College boy, Bob Moore, failed to react properly when kissed by several pretty co-eds, he was brought down to Hollywood as a Dietrich experiment—and Bob's "reactions" almost broke the machine. Now Marlene has borrowed the contraption to take home. She says she's going to try it out on Jean Gabin.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Bill Wellman is passing out cigars over the arrival of Timothy Wellman today at St. Vincent's Hospital. This makes two boys and two girls for the Wellmans: Elaine Barrie, in the largest red hat of the season, at the Scheerazade with Pepl D'Albrow; Dorothy Lee and Eddie Norris have discovered each other. How that boy gets around.

Arlene Judge says it isn't true that Jack Dempsey is the big moment in her life. She has seen him only once since he's been in town. Madeleine Carroll, silent as the Sphinx about her New York heartbreak, in town for two weeks before joining the "Dildo Kay" troupe on location in the Bahamas.

Euday Westmore has joined the Naval Reserves in the photographic division; Helen Vinson, the ex Mrs. Fred Perry, and Philip Reed a new duet at the Mincamor at the same place Jinx Falkenberg and Charlie Grayson; the "Ice Capades" continue to have as many stars in the boxes as on the ice.

HAL WALLIS spent all this morning in a Warner projection room looking at the very long test Robert Cummings made for "Kings Row"—and when he came out the part was Bob's. The role of Parris, for which Warners moved Heaven and Earth to get Ty Power—is one of the plums of the year and should put Bob right up in the starring class. Not since "Spring Parade" with Deanna Durbin has he had a role worthy of him. The lineup now for this popular novel is Cummings, Ronald Reagan as Drake—and Annie Sheridan as the girl Irene. Of course Bob Cummings is being borrowed from Universal for the Warner picture.

LOUELLA PARSONS, famed internationally-circulated Hearst motion picture columnist, will be heard locally over Station WEEK every Friday between 10 and 10:30 p. m.

22 BOSTON After DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

THE NEW FORM OF RAFFLE in the nightclubs is a pool based on what day—in the next 60—the "shooting war" will begin . . . It may be subtle propaganda, designed to create the notion of inevitability . . . But we are merely reporting the fact, and not trying to analyze things . . . If the pool remains intact after the first 60 days, the ante is doubled and the sweepstakes begins again as of July 1 . . . (We drew number "14").

LOLITA LANE'S impending engagement at the Crawford House stirred a great deal of interest among those who knew the lovely eldest daughter of the famous Lane sisters (whose right name is Millman) . . . In Hollywood . . . The booking was a distinct surprise . . . Sally Keith, who is leaving the same nightspot Saturday after swinking her tassels continuously since September, is being given a going-away "surprise party" at the Mayfair . . . On the chance that the affair is still a surprise (which is improbable) we will not reveal the night.

"BLUE PAIR RESPONDED most gratefully to this column's prediction Monday that the Wranglers would cop the Kentucky Derby . . . The colt won a mile test at Churchill Downs yesterday in the fastest mile yet hung up in a Derby hopeful (and only four-fifths of a second slower than the track record) . . . The victory really meant something, because "Whirlaway" was among those vanquished . . . And "Whirlaway's" stock had taken a sudden jump after the wealthy Eddie Arcaro had announced that he would have a leg up in the Saturday classic.

THAT DON MEADE WOULD RIDE Rocky Pallidino's horse, "Lola's Brandy," should have been no surprise . . . of this column . . . We invited the news week's ago . . . Meade should be given some credit for keeping his word to the Boston owner, because the owner of Market Wagon had promised the jack $20,000 if he would take the mount on Market Wagon (—and win, of course).

IF HOLLYWOOD is to be accepted as the successor of Paris as the style capital of the world, then a crack by Bob Hope (who is on the scene) indicates that the habit of wearing frocks in the good old summertime in New England is in danger of being outmoded . . . Working with Stu Erwin, Hope could the other candidate into the following exchange: ERWIN: I was born in California. HOPE:

Really? Then you mean you've never seen a woman wearing dresses? . . . Marlene Dietrich started something alright . . . The movie colony, they say, is committed so unanimously to sweaters and slacks that it is almost impossible to tell on glamor girl from another, with the exception of Mae West.

IT SEEMS THAT THE FEAR many of us had that Hollywood would manage to go cute in the matter of casting a star in the role of the lamented Texas Guinan, ending up with either Veronica Lake or—perhaps Judy Garland in the part, can now be allayed . . . We should have taken note that Buddy De Sylva, a young man of extraordinary common-sense, is going to be in complete charge of the Guinan picture.

BUDDY SAYS HE IS TRYING to get Mae West (see above) for the role . . . (This shouldn't be difficult) . . . If any actress can play Texas Guinan better than Mae West, it could only be Marjorie Rambeau . . . And on several points, the career of Miss West is preferable . . . It is too bad that all the kids who have heard Teddy Powell's band on the air couldn't meet this personable young man while he is in Boston . . . Teddy is making a midtown hotel his headquarters.

Hal LeRoy Star At RKO Boston

Smiling Hal LeRoy, looking no older than when he became an overnight sensation in the "Ziegfeld Follies," brings his dancing-primp to the RKO-Boston tomorrow, when he will lead the "Gay Nineties Revue."

LeRoy, second only to Bill Robinson and James Barton as a top and eccentric dancer, should be remembered by movie-fans for his zesty performance in the picture, "Too Many Girls." It is because of his exceptional dancing skill that he was chosen by the management to be the star of the second of the RKO Maytime Jubilee stage shows.

Importantly spotted in the four-day stage show are Moore and Revel, otherwise tagged "The Royal Jesters of the Dance" because of their uncanny ability to turn beautiful ballroom dancing into hilarious comedy.

Lovely Sarah Ann McCabe will handle the vocal end of the show. Others are to be Three Chords band improvisators, Harry Spear, master of ceremonies and the Twelve Latin Quarter boys and girls comprise the cast.

The film attractions, both first-run, are to be "Knar of the Jesters" with Jean Parker and Wyllie Ford, and "The Invisible Ghost" with Polly Ann Young.

'Flight From Destiny' On Olympia Screen

"Flight From Destiny," featuring Thomas Mitchell, Geraldine Fitzgerald and James Stephenson, and "Mazie Was A Lady," starring Ann Sothern with Lew Ayres, continue through Friday on Washington St. Olympia screen.

Mary Jane Moore and Billy Revel, "Royal Jesters of the Dance," to star in RKO Boston stage show, starting tomorrow.

Stage Boogie-Woogie Contest

A boogie-woogie contest, with the winner receiving a handsome trophy donated by the celebrated stage, radio and screen personality, Kay Kyser, is the most recently announced feature of the RKO-Boston Theater's Maytime Jubilee.

This is to be an added attraction to the regular stage and screen show with Phil Saltman, New England's noted pianist, co-operating in the auditioning and presenting the contestants on the stage.

Only amateurs are eligible to compete, the final to take place on Thursday, May 22.

Weekly winners will be presented as guest artists on Phil Saltman's Piano Club of the Air, heard every Sunday at 1 p. m. over Station WEEI.

Joan Collette Heads Globe Bill

Merely stunning, staggering and sensational is the Globe press agent's phrase for Joan Collette, who heads the new traveling burlesque show starting Friday.

Which should be incentive enough to catch the forthcoming stage show at this popular burlesque house.

Additionally, there are Mary Grant, described as a New England girl with a South American personality; Crystal Ames, who projects glamour in a coy sort of way; Margie Dale, who proved a burlesque hit in a recent Chicago engagement, and the 50 dancing Bearadolls, with new and lavish dance ensembles.

The well-known Two Lunatics will swing high the comedy portion of the new bill with their acrobatics fantasmagoric, imitations and what have you and to prolong and intensify the fun there will be Pat Donald, Andy Parsons, Harry Ryan and Irving Benson.

Vaudeville features included in the scheduled show will be Marion Young and Leonard Lawrence, the polka-tapping Grace and Egan and the athletic Adams.

Film attractions will be "Drums" co-starring Raymond Massey and Valerie Hobson, and "King of the Underworld."

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

WEATHER REPORT

Official U. S. Weather Bureau Forecasts

LOCAL: Fair tonight, cooler than last night; Thursday fair, cooler than today; moderate northwesterly winds today, shifting to moderate northerly tonight; lowest temperature tonight near 52.

MAINE: Fair tonight and Thursday; cooler tonight with light to heavy frosts in central and northern portion; warmer north portion Thursday afternoon.

NEW HAMPSHIRE: Fair and cooler; frosts in exposed places tonight; Thursday increasing cloudiness, cooler north portion.

CONNECTICUT AND RHODE ISLAND: Fair and continued mild tonight and Thursday.

GENERAL CONDITIONS

A weak low pressure disturbance moved across northern Maine last night, causing light rain in that region and Caribou, Me., reported light snow mixed with the rain. A mass of warm, dry air and its accompanying high pressure system dominate the weather over most of the eastern portion of the country. As this dry air is expected to remain somewhat stationary over this area, there will be no change from the fair, mild weather of the past several days to southern New England. However, the disturbance moving off the northeastern Maine coast will transport somewhat cooler air into northern New England and along the coast of Massachusetts tonight. A stream of moist air moving northward over the Plains States is causing a band of showers and thunderstorms in that area. However, this region of heavy weather is moving very slowly eastward and will not affect southern New England in the near future.

Threat Revealed By Woman Solon

Mrs. Leslie B. Cutler of Needham, one of the four women members of the State Legislature, said today that she had been "threatened with political oblivion" if she supported legislation to place county employees under Civil Service.

Mrs. Cutler, a member of the Civil Service committee considering the county bill, said that the "threat" had been made in a telephone call from an unidentified man who said that he was a county employee.

SUICIDE IN AUTO

BRUNSWICK, Me., April 30 (AP)—The body of Leon LeClair, 31, of Bath, was found in his parked car on the outskirts of this town, and Medical Examiner Earle Richardson said that the man had committed suicide by gas poisoning.

LOUIE, YOU'RE ALL DYNAMITE THESE DAYS! AND YOU USED TO BE A TIRED-LOOKING, SKINNY NO-GOOD! HOW COME?

I WAS TOLD I HAD A 'VITAMIN B COMPLEX DEFICIENCY'. GET IT, BABY?

NO, CERTAINLY I DON'T! TRANSLATE IT!

IT JUST MEANS A SHORTAGE OF THOSE WONDERFUL VITAMINS FOUND SO ABUNDANTLY IN YEAST AND RAW LIVER

YEAST? YOU DON'T MEAN THE REGULAR GROCERY-STORE YEAST... YOU GOT IT? FLEISCHMANN'S?

YEAST IS RICH IN THE VITAMIN B COMPLEX, AND EVERYBODY KNOWS YOU CAN'T LOOK OR FEEL YOUR BEST WITHOUT THOSE VITAMINS. IT'S CHEAP, TOO!

FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST IS ONE OF THE RICHEST NATURAL SOURCES OF THE AMAZING VITAMIN B COMPLEX... AND I TAKE IT THE NEW, DELICIOUS WAY... IN TOMATO JUICE!

MASH a cold cake of Fleischmann's Yeast in a dry glass with a fork, then add a little tomato juice, milk, or water and STIR till blended... then fill glass, stir again, and DRINK... twice a day. It's especially delicious in tomato juice.

30 Cronin Benches Finney As Pete Fox Joins Team

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1931

DETROIT, Mich., April 30—"There'll be some changes made," according to the fellow who writes the songs, and one of them will be in the Red Sox outfield when Pete Fox rejoins the club today.

Pete left Forest Hills hospital yesterday and rushed West immediately, expecting to arrive in time to face his old mates, the Detroit Tigers, in the second game of the series today.

Pete, eight years a right fielder with the Tigers, will take Lou Finney's place in right field if he has recuperated sufficiently from his jaw operation.

Finney, the batting sensation of 1940, left his batting eye in the Southland this spring. He had been hitting viciously before that, eliciting "Ohs" and "Ahs" daily from the rival Cincinnati Reds.

Bill McKechnie, as we said before, used to spend his nights, planning how he could kidnap Lou. He needed a left-handed hitting outfielder in the worst way, he thought, because Ival Goodman not only was under weight but was having trouble with his right shoulder, his throwing one.

Finney was the leading hitter on the club in those early season games. It is easy to recall his triple and double which beat the Reds in Tampa, Fla., his consistent hitting in Havana, and all the way up the line to Owensboro, Ky.

But Harry Craft fixed Lou in that distillery town on the afternoon of April 7 by raking in three of his line drives, every one of them with a triple tag.

Lou hasn't hit with any degree of consistency since, and right now is under the 200 mark. Horrible experience for one who last year was leading the league well into the season up in the .370's and .380's and who wound up the year with a .330 mark.

Fox is no fence buster, although his eight year average with the Tigers is a creditable .302.

Pete played six games with the Sox before his infected tooth laid him low. He had only a .250 hitting mark for those six games but that doesn't tell half the story. All of his hits, it seems, came when they meant something. When the chips are down, Pete is at his best.

His value to the club, however, lies more in his heady base running than in his hitting. Five of the six games he played, the Sox won. It is also true that Finney played all six of those games. But Lou wasn't getting on base much and Pete was. And how he ran then was a caution.

Doni Di Maggio was hitting in his usual No. 1 spot, Pete in No. 3, and it seemed as if they were on base all the time.

One day in particular stands out. It was in Washington. Sid Hudson started the game for the Nats, was taken out for a pinch hitter and two kids, Anderson and Dean, finished.

It was a free-hitting game, Bobby Doerr himself driving in four runs that day, but it was Di Maggio and Pete Fox who caught our eye. They were running those bases like Indians on the warpath.

They upset young Anderson so much he kept walking men constantly, not being able to keep his mind on the batter. And in the ninth, Jim Dean became so rattled when he saw Pete start for second with Lou Finney on third that he threw the ball into left field, it seared up the game for the Sox.

That was the fifth straight victory for the Sox, and it seemed as if they couldn't lose a game.

Two days later, Pete took sick and was rushed to Boston. He hasn't been in action since.

Finney is down fine. He keeps in excellent condition during the winter, and three days after he arrives in camp he's in mid-season form. He had seven tough weeks of it in the Southland, and needs a rest. That should make him brand new again.

In the meantime, it's nice to have a smart veteran like Pete Fox around to fill in for him. Because Pete's a hustler.

The Big Five of the Red Sox is no more. Decision of Manager Joe Cronin to start Earl Johnson on the mound in the final game of the Detroit series tomorrow, means that Jack Wilson has been dropped, for the time being at least, from the Grove, Wilson, Wagner, Ryba, Dickman quietest . . . the fine pitching of Dick Newsome and Bill Fleming against the A's and Harris' great relief work has convinced Joe there is still unexplored talent among his pitchers . . . it is hoped he gives Thomas William Oscar Judd a starting chance before the May 15 pruning because baseball men are one in stating that the left-handed Judd is a smart and capable pitcher . . . Boston needs its best Big Five on the mound if it is to be a factor in the 1941 pennant race.

CUBS' CAMBRIDGE BOY COMING STAR---GRIMM

By JOE CASHMAN

The general impression is that the majority of baseball men are in the game solely for the money it brings them. The truth of the matter is that most of them would perform for "peanuts" rather than sever connections with the pastime.

FIRST LOVE—"Cholly" Grimm, a lowly coach of the Chicago Cubs, still shows the great enthusiasm that he displayed while piloting the same team to pennants only a few years back. Grimm passed up a far more lucrative job as a radio announcer to return to the game nearest his heart even though in a lowly capacity.

If you doubt it, consider the case of Charlie Grimm, who is currently coaching for the Chicago Cubs, now engaged in a three-game series with our Braves at the Hive. There's no logical explanation for jolly "Cholly" being where he is today.

He managed these same Cubs for several years. He won pennants for them. He never finished below third place. And his reward was a discharge in mid-season of 1937.

No other club could find a position for him when he went seeking new employment.

CHUCKED RADIO JOB

He finally caught on as a radio announcer in Chicago. He had a soft berth. His work didn't start until the first batter came to the plate. He was through for the day as soon as the last batter was retired.

He was drawing down a fat salary. He was enjoying peace and security.

Where so often, for so many years, he spent sleepless nights over Cubs' defeats, players' slumps and who to pitch the next day, he was without a baseball worry as a baseball broadcaster. He could second-guess managers, as he had so often been second-guessed, and then go home and chuckle about it before turning in for a night of sound and untroubled slumber.

You'd imagine that nothing less than a major league presidency could lure him back to the horsehide profession.

Yet, when Jimmy Wilson, upon being appointed manager of the Cubs last winter, offered Grimm a coaching job, jolly "Cholly" chuckled his radio future into Lake Michigan and came a-running back into the diamond fold.

FRISK DID SAME

"Love of the game," Charlie explains. "It gets in your blood and stays there as long as you live."

"Sure, it was more peaceful and as profitable financially when I was doing my stuff before the 'mike,' but I wasn't content. Few old players are when they are anywhere else but in the thick of the action."

"You don't realize this until you are out of the game for a while."

BEES HAVE FLOWN, BRAVES HERE AGAIN

By FRANK FENWAY

The thousands of fans who for the past four years have clung to the name Boston Braves, may now continue without fear of contradiction, for from here in that's the correct monicker.

At a meeting of stockholders last night the tag Boston Bees was given the old heave-ho and the old name of the club resumed.

Thus ended a noble experiment on the part of Bob Quinn.

Feeling that the expressions "Braves" and "Eightth Place" were beginning to be synonymous, Quinn decided to scrap the name Braves in 1937 and allow the Boston sports writers to choose the name from among those submitted by fans.

MUCH WRANGLING

A group of some 20 sports writers gathered with Quinn and other club officials at the Copley Plaza, and after dining and wining, with the accent on the latter, settled down to the business at hand.

The various names were read off, and no matter how ridiculous they were at least one supporter would bob up for each. Following an hour of wrangling it was decided to take about a half-dozen of the more heavily supported names and vote on them.

Well, one gent of considerable sports prominence at the time did a little pre-bait campaign for the name Bees, and since the independents all had names of their own the some half-dozen who had been ear-branded found that they had named themselves a ball club.

KNOCKED BY AUTHOR

Bob Quinn's jaw dropped a foot when he learned the result of the balloting, but he had originated the idea of thus naming the club and so had to stand by the selection.

It would have been interesting to know what happened to his blood pressure two days later when he read a story blasting the choice of the name Bees by the very writer who had stamped it through.

The Bees have flown, long prosper the Braves.

Sox Sacrificing Pennant Chances For Grove's Goal

By HERB FINNEGAN
DETROIT, April 30—Lefty Grove today could sympathize with that other old man, Fritz Kreisler, because he knew what it was to be hit by a truck.

Old Lefty himself was hit and thrown for a 10-year loss by the Detroit truck in the opener of the series here as the Sox lost, 5 to 3. Seven hits, five runs in three innings off the old master.

Is Grove done? Possibly not, but, if the Sox plan to do any pennant contending this year they might as well make up their minds that Grove is not the pitcher he was in 1931.

Last year, it may be recalled, he opened with a sensational two-hit shutout over Washington, but where did he go from there?

If memory serves, he was chased from the hill six times running, and didn't pitch a decent game until just before Boston threw him that big banquet in June. If he hadn't, it would have been a wake.

He didn't have much of a summer, either, though the boys like to relate how he pitched in thunderbolt fashion against the Tigers in his final start of the campaign. He took part in 22 games all told, which means he must have started 22 times, and his record was 7 won, 6 lost. Not very imposing for the left-handed ace of the club.

HARRIS HURLS SHUTOUT BALL

This year he opened with a two-hit, seven inning trick against the A's, but where is he going from here?

There are three other left-handers on the Sox at the moment. They are Earl Johnson, Mickey Harris and Oscar Judd. All are young and strong.

Harris and Johnson have shown exceptional ability. Harris gave the Tigers three hits and no runs in the five innings he worked yesterday. Last week he fanned five Yankees in two inning relief stint.

Johnson last year was the best pitcher on the club after coming up from Rocky Mount on July 16. He won six from there in, one less that Grove did all season. Judd hasn't had a chance to work yet. He has pitched to only one batter since the season opened, yet he was good enough to start 22 games on the coast last year.

Isn't it reasonable to suppose that one of these three southpaws would be more valuable than Grove if given the chance to start 22 games? And wouldn't any one of them have a better future?

MIGHT THINK OF FANS

It's all right with me if the Sox want to sacrifice their pennant chances so that Grove can win those seven games he needs to reach the 300 mark and gain a niche in the Hall of Fame.

It's all right, too, if they want to keep young pitchers back by not giving them the proper amount of work.

And it's all right if they want to

Diamond Gems

The coming golf match between Cobb and Ruth recalls the story about Goose Goslin, Washington star slugger for years, in his first public golf match. . . the husky, swaggering Goose was playing in a foursome, the proceeds to go to charity. . . Goslin, born showman, confidently teed up his ball on the first tee before a fair-sized crowd of onlookers, twisted his frame into a mighty back-swing and let loose with a terrific awish of the club. . . but the Goose barely topped the ball and it trickled a few feet from the tee. . . there was a strained silence as the Goose's face reddened, and then a voice came from the gallery, "Run it out, Goose! Run it out!"—WHIT CUSHING.

fuddle around as they did a year ago and get nowhere.

But they might at least think of the Boston fans, who have been pretty loyal through all the team's failures.

"The Sox would walk in if they had the pitching," is the annual lament.

Well, like the fellow who didn't know whether he could speak French or not because he never tried, the Sox don't know whether they've got the pitchers or not because they're not tried either. At least not very often.

The Sox had a chance to pull the game out of the fire in the ninth. The score was 5-3, and Di Maggio was on base when Stainback rubbed Finney of a triple. Had it broken through, Williams would have been at bat and Finney on third with the tying run. And the way Williams was hitting, he probably would have dunked another into the right field bleachers.

Tommy Stephenson, Harvard A. A. editor emeritus, said "Hello" to the Boston writers. Tommy, now connected with the duPont Company, is here on business. . . Campbell's hit, which drove in two runs in the third, was his first of the season. . . Greenberg hasn't been hitting, either, because his mind is more on $530 reville than it is on the ball game. . . Williams made a fine running catch of Croucher's line drive in the seventh. Ted's getting around much better than he did in Washington. . . Homer and double the first day. Nine going, kid.

IT'S BEHIND YOU—"Ducky" Medwick, Dodgers' slugging outfielder, is declared safe when Billy Werber, custodian of the Reds' "hot corner," puts the tag on him without the ball. Note the ball behind Werber.

O'Doul May Lose Eye; Hit With Bottle

HOLLYWOOD, April 30 (INS)—Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, 44, manager of the San Francisco Seals and former major leaguer, may lose the sight of his left eye as the result of an altercation with an unknown assailant in a cocktail lounge early today, police reported.

O'Doul was slugged on the head and across the eyes with a bottle. He was rushed to police emergency hospital, where it was said his left eye was injured seriously. Police could only get a sketchy report of the fight, but they learned that O'Doul, whose team was in Los Angeles for a series of games with the Los Angeles Angels, and a friend were sitting at the bar, when the stranger approached and began haranguing O'Doul about the seals.

O'Doul told the assailant to "beat it," whereupon the man started to attack him. The stranger grabbed a bottle and beat O'Doul to the floor with it, then fled.

Edward Ramey, who had been sitting with O'Doul, said the stranger was a Hollywood gambler but that he did not know his name.

Insure Simon's Hands for $25,000

NEW YORK, April 30 (INS)—The hairy, ham-like dukes of ponderous Abe Simon are evaluated today at about the same price as the delicate, sensitive hands of an artist or musician.

In fact, Simon's slugs are worth $25,000.

More explicitly, that figure is the sum that a New York insurance concern will pay if the paws of ample Abraham are battered or bruised so that he cannot fight Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis again, which is the rather terrific task he hopes to undertake some time soon.

James J. Johnston, Simon's manager, said today that premiums on the policy taken out on Abe's hands are as high as the Empire State tower. "But it's worth the cost," James J. continued, adding:

"Abe's hands are as valuable to him and me as any artists' hands are to them."

"As soon as Abe begins training for Louis, the insurance will go into effect. In case he hurts his hands so that he can't go through with the fight, we'll be taken care of."

"For instance, if I'd known Abe's hand was bad last time he went out against Louis, I'd never have let him fight. I'm not taking any chances this time."

Asked if he was interested in securing additional financial protection on the Simon chin and other points where Champion Louis is known to have landed his lethal lefts, Johnson replied:

"I think Abe can take care of that angle."

New Jersey Gov. Encourages Diamond Fans

TRENTON, N. J., April 30 (AP)—Trenton baseball fans won a shoutout against Governor Charles Edison, so state employees won't have to pull the "grandmother" funeral gag to attend the opening game today of the Trenton Senators versus the Bridgeport, Ct., Bees.

Edison issued a proclamation authorizing state workers to "sneak out" early to be at Dunn Field when the first ball is tossed out in the inaugural here of the Interstate Baseball League.

"And I do promise," Edison said, "that a general amnesty will be granted to said employees against penalties resulting from their defection from duty" so state employees might "show a suitably patriotic display of interest in the national game."

Team Spirit Of Cards Cause For Success

NEW YORK, April 30 (INS)—Peppy William Southworth, skipper of the St. Louis Cardinals, admitted today he is a firm believer in the "old college try" and he uses his renovated Red Birds as an example.

The Cardinals, who squeaked New York's Giants, 5 to 4, yesterday, in their first appearance this year in the East, are battling in second place of the National League. Asked why, Southworth said:

"For one thing, and it's important, we have a wonderful spirit within the club."

"Everybody on the team is out to win, whether he happens to be on the field that day or on the bench."

"You've got to have more than skill to win," he said. "You've got to have a real competitive spirit, and I'm sure we have that."

Southworth, who took over as Cardinal manager last summer, otherwise, said he believes his team is much improved over the 1940 edition. "I can't tell just how much better we are," he explained, "but I'm sure we're an improved club."

Whirlaway Better Than Trial Shows

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30 (INS)—Porter's Cap, Our Boots, Blue Pair and Whirlaway—there are the "Big Four" for the 67th running of the Kentucky Derby this Saturday.

Until yesterday, the Derby had its "big three" in The Capper, Mr. Rools and Whirlaway. Then Blue Pair, a glamor boy from the Thomas Bragg Farms, volunteered for the exclusive set with his victory in the $2500 Derby trial.

Blue Pair was three-quarters of a length in front of Whirlaway at the wire yesterday, but a mile ahead in the fans' estimation. He finished the mile in the good time of 1:56.35.

Peculiarly, Whirlaway lost none of his polish in losing, though he did slip some in the books. He again demonstrated his one bad fault by beating out very wide on the final turn when a good corner might have given him the lead. He simply runs so fast on the turns he can't straighten out.

CERTAIN TO GO IN DERBY

Ben Jones, Whirlaway's trainer, exploded all reports that his chestnut son of Elmhurst II-Dustwhirl was "out of the Derby" if he failed in the trial.

"He definitely will be in the Derby," Jones declared.

Then Jones, who conditioned Lawrin, the 1938 Derby winner, for H. M. Woolf, talked about Whirlaway's defeat yesterday, and his similar loss to Our Boots in the Bluegrass a week ago. Jones explained it, the colt bunches his feet up under him, running paddiewheel fashion, and at terrific speed swings wide into the track on turns, and cannot stop. That's what happened to him in both races, according to Jones.

BLUE PAIR'S BOSSES ELATED

However, both Blue Pair's and Whirlaway's barns were elated by the showings of their candidates. Blue Pair's handlers were pleased by his fast time, and Whirlaway's because the horse showed terrific speed—forgetting the paddiewheel swerve. Owner Warren Wright believes he has taken steps to correct Whirlaway's swerving by hiring Eddie Arcaro to ride him Saturday.

There was no change overnight in the probable Derby starters for $75,000 added and undying bluegrass glory. The surest bet to go postward remained Our Boots, Porter's Cap, Whirlaway, Little Beas, Blue Pair, Dispose, Robert Morris Swain and Market Wise, with Agricole, Staretor and Valinda Paul getting strong nods.

The way sentiment was running, it appeared Porter's Cap and Our Boots might go to the post at about 2 to 1; Whirlaway at 5 to 1; Blue Pair around 8; with Robert Morris, Market Wise and Dispose about 15. Little Beas and Swain somewhere near 20; Agricole also about 20; and Staretor and Valinda Paul as the longshots at about 50 and 75, respectively.

FULL CRY DOUBTFUL

Full Cry has been mentioned, but he must be considered a very doubtful starter, and other "sneakers" may be Men About Town, or Nascas, a filly.

Track officials, meantime, redoubled their efforts to be ready for what may be a record Derby crowd. Extra accommodations were in the process of preparation, along with expanded food and drink services and plenty of ticket-sellers.

Doubt Agricole Derby Starter

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30 (AP)—Agricole, the "local hope" in the Kentucky Derby Saturday, became a doubtful starter today.

George Brooks, trainer for Shady Brook Farm, owned by Theodore Mueller of Louisville, said "I've about made up my mind Agricole won't be in the Derby."

Brooks added that Mueller "left it up to me about starting Agricole and since the horse is so light, it would hardly be the thing to do to put 125 pounds on his back so early in the season."

PRIVATE CASEY CHOICE OVER MANLAPIC

With many of his soldier buddies in arms around the ringside, Private Steve Casey, U. S. Army, will attempt to climb nearer the heavyweight wrestling championship tonight when he clashes with Pantaleon Manlapig, champion of the Philippine Islands, in the main event of Promotor Phil Bowser's all-star show at the Arena.

Private Casey, stationed in the artillery unit at Fort Constitution, Portsmouth, N. H., will have the backing of officers and men in his outfit, and will be accompanied to the Arena tonight by Albert Hislop, former mayor of Portsmouth. Mr. Hislop, a real Casey fan, recently held a reception for Steve following the latter's slam-bang victory over Ben Morgan.

But to get back to tonight, Casey will rule the favorite and rightfully so, because he has never looked better. Steve credits it all to Army life and says if he had been a soldier a year ago he'd never have lost the title in the first place. Steve is taller, but not quite as heavy as the Filipino, but who is an army man himself and who outranks Casey. Manlapig is a lieutenant in the army of his homeland.

Manlapig's main stock in trade is the cobra hold, which he works by wrapping his powerful arms around an opponent's chin and squeezing for all he is worth.

MAIN BOIT
Pantaleon Manlapig vs. Steve Casey.
SEMI-FINAL
Lou Plummer, Iowa vs. Les Nunn, Seattle.
SPECIAL BOIT
Lord Albert Mulla vs. George Macri-estes.

McKeechie Certain Dodgers Real Rival

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, April 30 (INS)—Bill McKeechie, the astute Scot who runs the Reds with an iron fist in a velvet glove, is more than ever convinced today that the Dodgers are the team to beat if his club is to move into another World Series next fall.

"The Dodgers are much stronger than they were last year," Bill admitted today. "They are hitting behind fine pitching and that's a tough combination to beat. And, of course, they're hustling as a winning ball club must and always does."

Bill's admiration for the Dodgers wasn't lessened to any extent by another beating the Brooklynites handed the Reds yesterday. In the first game of the series the Reds were held to six hits by Whit Wyatt and yesterday the champs could get only four off Luke Hamlin, while the Dodgers pounded five Red pitchers for a dozen hits and an easy 13-2 triumph.

8 STRAIGHT FOR DODGERS
That ran the Dodger victory string up to eight straight and left everybody from the bat boy to Larry MacPhail and Leo Durocher, to say nothing of a million fans, thoroughly convinced beyond argument that this is to be "the" Dodger year.

The Dodger pitching has been in distinct contrast to that of the Pirates, who dropped into the cellar when Bill Crook, a Dodger castoff to the Phillies, held Frankie Frisch's charges to four hits for a 6-2 decision.

At last reports, the volatile Frisch had not jumped off any bridge, although he probably felt like it. We know of nobody in baseball who hates to lose as much as he does, so you may look for some drastic changes in the Pirate personnel.

Sebastian Sisti, the Bees' youthful infielder, must have put a few extra gray hairs in the head of Jimmy Wilson, another hard loser, when his homer with two aboard in the 11th gave the Bees a 6-3 verdict over the Cubs.

And the Cards started off their eastern invasion on the right foot by trimming their erstwhile buddy, Bob Bowman, to beat the Giants 5-4.

INDIANS GOING STRONG

Over in the junior circuit, the pace-setting Indians rolled up their fifth straight victory at the expense of Chubby Dean and the Athletics.

The Tigers routed Lefty Grove for a 5-3 decision over the Red Sox and Thornton Lee's pitching plus Joe Kuhel's homer gave the White Sox a 3-2 margin over the Senators.

Late last season the Yanks moved into St. Louis with a chance for the pennant and left town with their hopes crushed. They started right in yesterday where they left off last year by bowing to Bob Harris and the lovely Brownies, 3-2. The Yanks got only five hits off Harris. The Browns themselves made only three hits off Lefty Gomez, but Lefty had the misfortune to walk in one run and let Chet Laabs break it up with a homer and so the Yanks today find themselves in third place behind the White Sox.

Durocher Attributes Success to Pitching

NEW YORK, April 30 (INS)—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers today wasn't willing to say outright that his club will win the National League pennant this season, but he was highly pleased over prospects now that the Flatbush fellows have routed Cincinnati's Reds twice in a row. Lippy Leo, emerging from the Ebbets Field dugout after the Dodgers patted the Reds, 13 to 2, yesterday, said:

"The Reds are the team to beat!"

Continuing, Durocher exclaimed: "They're still world champions, you know, and they're still a great ball club."

Concerning his own Brooklynites, who used to be the Daffy Dodgers, but now are flying high in first place, Durocher asserted:

"We have had some fine pitching, which is 50 per cent of the thing, and, otherwise, we're going like a house afire. If we can get along without injuries and keep moving something like we are now, there's not much chance to beat us."

spell. I thought, when I first took the radio job, that nothing less than a long-term managerial contract could get me to go back to baseball. But I wasn't on the job a week before I was itching to get back on the field in any capacity.

"I imagine the same is true of Frankie Frisch and Roger Peckinpaugh. Frankie had a nice radio job here. He forgot it the moment he was asked to assume the task of piloting the Pirates. And Peckinpaugh gave up a job in the American League front office to return as boss in Cleveland, the graveyard of managers. "Maybe we're silly, but I know I'm happy and I'll bet Frisch and Peck are far happier than they ever could be looking on from the outside. You see, when this game gets in your blood, you'd pay to be connected with it."

COMING STAR

As an old first baseman, and one of the best, Edie Grimm views on Eddie Watkins, Cambridge rookie who is bidding for the first-base job on the Cubs, ought to be interesting.

"Eddie is a coming star," opines jolly Cholly. "All he needs is a little more weight and he's sure to put that on. He's a marvel around the bag. And he has a good eye at the plate, as he proved by hitting over 300 in every minor league he has been in. When he gets the power to drive a ball a little further than he can at present, he'll be a standout."

Manager Jimmy Wilson is the authority for the statement that present plans call for Watkins to be retained by the Braves as a substitute for Phil Cavarretta.

The Cambridge boy hasn't yet distinguished himself at the bat, but he's done as well in the field as has the highly-touted Lou Novikoff, coast clouter who came up this spring heralded as one of the greatest hitters of all times.

STILL HANGS ON

There was a spot for the "Mad Russian," as they called Lou out in Los Angeles, to pinch hit for the Cubs yesterday, but Wilson instead called on "Hank" Leiber, who signed up only last Sunday and joined the club here Monday night.

"Hank" popped up in the clutch in the eighth and the Braves went on to win the game, 6 to 3, in the 11th, when Sebi Sisti homered over the leftfield wall against "Tot" Presnell, after Eddie Miller had doubled and Babe Dahlgren had been purposely passed.

The Braves had jumped into a two-run lead in the first three innings against Claude Passeau, but the Cubs chased Frank Lamanna and tied the count in the fourth, when Bill Nicholson homered, following a walk by Don Dalesandro.

Joe "Lefty" Sullivan, going to Lamanna's rescue, was given a one-run lead in the fifth and protected it until the ninth, when the Cubs knotted the count again on singles by Hack and Dalesandro. But the veteran southpaw hung in there and gained his first decision of the campaign when Sisto teed off.

2 French Racers Enter Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 30 (AP)—The Indianapolis Motor Speedway Corp. announced today that Rene LeBeuge and Jean Trevoix, French automobile race drivers, had cabled their entry in the 500-mile race Decoration Day and were trying to get passage on an American Export liner to leave Lisbon, Portugal, Friday. LeBeuge advised that his two six-cylinder French Talbot racing cars have been cleared. Speedway officials said that the foreign department of the American Automobile Ass'n and the French consulate in Washington, were helping the drivers get reservations from Lisbon.

LeBeuge, with Rene Dreyfus driving relief, piloted a French car into 10th place in last year's race.

RACE CROOKS SHOULD BE CURBED BY STRICT LAWS

IF A THIEVING gambler in New York bribes a jockey and causes him to throw a horse race, he can be sent up the river for a five-year stretch and also fined $10,000. There are plenty of teeth in the New York law signed by Governor Herbert L. Lehman and aimed at the type of crooks who trimmed California racegoers of $4,000,000 by "fixed" races.

GOV. H. L. LEHMAN

In California a group of unscrupulous bookmakers had a jockey ring. They instructed the jockeys when to "pull" horses and when to be down on their bellies trying to boot in winners. California now has a law which makes it a felony to bribe jockeys.

With California and New York showing the way, Massachusetts should fall into line and make it more difficult for the race "fixers" to operate. It should have a law which will make it a criminal offense to bribe jockeys, dope horses so that they cannot run, equip thoroughbreds with shoes that make it impossible for them to win with the intent to defraud the public, or to do anything else that prevents a horse to run his true race provided the paramount reason for doing so is to commit a robbery without force of arms.

The New York law does not go far enough. It only punishes the crook who bribes a jockey.

This is only one of many ways of making sure that a horse does not run as well as he could.

Sponging of Horses Ruins Their Chances

THERE IS A GANG of spongers that lurk near the barns of race tracks and kill off the chances of the better horses before they even reach the starting barrier.

The spongers invaded little Agawam in the Berkshires a few years ago. In the darkness of the night, they stuffed sponges into the nostrils of three of the star horses in a race. They then sought out the barn of the favorite in the race. In the darkness they got into the wrong barn and they sponged a horse that did not run in the race. They overlooked the favorite, and he went on to win.

The spongers operated with a group of sure thing gamblers in Springfield who made their wagers with bookmakers. Part of the money was eventually placed with Frank Erickson's book in New York. Erickson became suspicious of the play, and sent the money back to the track. The spongers and their backers would have made a cleanup if the favorite as well as the other three top horses had been sponged. A long shot would have won.

Without a special examination, it is impossible to tell whether a horse has been sponged until after he has run a short distance. A sponged horse may break on top and go away from the barrier at a terrific speed. He will soon tire, and is certain to finish out of the money.

Often Use Medicine to Slow Down a Horse

DON'T BLAME THE jockey every time an odds on favorite runs out of the money. Vigilant veterinarians and efficient stewards have discovered that dishonest trainers and grooms frequently slow down their horse by the use of sedative medicines.

When the public reads about a horse being doped, it usually thinks the thoroughbred has been given some stimulant to make him win. While this is the common usage of the word doped around tracks, top horses have been given medicines that would slow them down so they would be beaten by inferior horses. In the vernacular of the race track, this is giving a horse "the slow."

The owner, eager to see his colors come down in front, could put the most able jockey in the world up on such a horse, and still he would lose. The jockey would be unable to explain why a horse that ran so well a few days before could not come back with a good race. A crooked trainer or groom, or maybe an outside operator who did his work during the night, could give the horse. He could tell why an honest jockey was unjustly booed, and why so many thousands of dollars of the people's money went up in smoke.

A horse can be slowed down by giving him too much to eat or drink shortly before post time. If done with the intent to defraud the betting public, this is as much an offense as bribing a jockey and it should be punished.

There have been cases at dog tracks before Commission control, of where dogs were slowed down by water or a heavy meal, or by having their feet sandpapered. In order to prevent such frauds, the Racing Commission insists that dogs be turned over to them by 6 p. m. on the night of a race. This prevents last-minute tampering.

THE OWNERS of the various tracks as well as their officials are anxious to prevent crooked races. Racing has become big business with the tracks and State as partners. Racing Commissions and other persons in charge of the proper conduct of horse racing could function better if they had the backing of laws that had teeth in them.

There is not any place in the sport of kings for the jockey, owner, trainer, groom, gambler or hanger on who has a heart filled with larceny.

Feeney Improves Wright

By BILL GRIMES

One of the best appointments William F. Long has made since he has been park commissioner was to assign Charlie Feeney as greenskeeper at the George Wright Golf Club.

The George Wright Golf Club course compared very favorably with any municipal layout in the country. It boasts of more fine golf holes than most private courses. It is an exceptionally tough test of golf. It has stopped the best golfers in these parts and, under capable supervision, can easily be developed into an outstanding layout.

For three years the George Wright Golf Club course's development was retarded for the lack of a "grass" man. Despite its excellent watering system, the layout was slowly going to seed, proving beyond a doubt that because a superintendent of a golf course is admittedly a capable construction engineer that it doesn't necessarily follow that he can grow grass.

Charlie Feeney has been with the park department for at least 10 years. He was a foreman during the construction of the George Wright course. But, upon the completion of that project, he was transferred. Apparently at some time in the past, Charlie Feeney registered with Park Commr. William F. Long, for immediately when the greenskeeper's berth was vacated in went Charlie and back came the course.

UNITY AT LAST

Going on the assumption that there isn't a greenskeeper in the business who has completely mastered the science of growing grass, Charlie Feeney is open to suggestions. Naturally, he hasn't the time, nor the inclination, to listen to every Tom, Dick and Harry who crosses his path. But, he'll lend an ear to anyone who, in his opinion, knows something about the subject at hand, grass growing.

Moreover, Charlie Feeney appreciates the fact that John Kent, president of the George Wright Golf Club, made a careful study of the conditions at the Hyde Park layout. Feeney and Kent are working hand in hand and the course will derive the benefits, for between them and Park Commr. Long, the George Wright course will become one of the most popular "munies" in New England.

For the first time in the three years it has been operating the George Wright Golf Club departments are all working in perfect unison. Park Commr. Long is recognized by every employee and member as the "Big Boss." He is consulted before an innovation is proposed. He is not being high pressured by any members who erroneously rate themselves as privileged characters. And now he has explicit confidence in all of the heads of departments. And he recognizes the fact that the club officials are not holding office for the purpose or even the thought of personal awards.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Bill Taylor is doing a fine job as professional at George Wright, and in Jim O'Hare the Hyde Park club has one of the best qualified caddy masters in golf. Bill Delaney, superintendent of the clubhouse, was a pro golfer for 20 years. He was the pro at the Bellevue Golf Club, North Adams Country Club and the Needham Golf Club before going to Hyde Park.

Joe Lynch, a former state caddy, junior and amateur champion, is the concessionaire and Bill Hackett, from Station 18 is the motor cycle officer.

Fred, John Kent will appoint a committee to solicit new members. Due to the fact that the course wasn't in as good condition as it should have been a year ago, the club lost members during the winter months. But, now that Charlie Feeney has whipped it back into shape, Kent is confident that within two months the membership quota will be filled.

With the course in its present fine condition and its excellent clubhouse and locker rooms, the George Wright Golf Club has much to offer for $35 per year.

EDISON GUN CLUB CARRIES BOSTON'S HOPES IN HEARST

By WALTER KILEY

Boston's chances of capturing the championship trophy which goes with winning Sunday's W. R. Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition at the 101st Infantry Armory rests squarely on the sharpshooting accuracy of the Boston Edison Gun Club team.

Boston Edison Gun Club alone qualified to represent the home district in this first annual rifle shoot which is attracting 16 of the crack marksmanship teams of New England.

The four men who will fire on the Edison team were named only after a long elimination series participated in by the 100 enthusiastic gunners of the club.

This Boston organization was formed in 1937 under the direct sponsorship of Frank A. Belden, company executive, well known gun expert and author. It also goes in for pistol shooting in a major way and both the rifle and pistol teams have met with outstanding successes in local competition.

CAPTAIN CONFIDENT

This past winter season was a bright one in the comparatively short term of Edison Gun Club's existence. The team won the championships of the Civilian and Military League of Boston, and also the American Legion Service and Civilian Rifle League, the latter in Class B competition.

The Edison lineup next Sunday will be Captain Alton B. Nelson, James E. Cousins, Percy E. Frisbie, Carl R. Carlson and Coach Charles F. Pyne.

Capt. Nelson is past president of the club and has been an enthusiastic shooter since his early boyhood days in Maine. He figures his team can win the Hearst Trophy regardless of opposition.

COUSINS TRIPLE THREAT

Frisbie, it is said, would rather shoot than eat. At Camp Ritchie last year he won the Tyro championship.

Carlson is an expert marksman, best when the competition is stiff.

He has an outdoor range near his Reading home and excels in the out-of-doors shooting.

Cousins is the "triple threat" of the team. His mates call him "Dead Eye Dick." He received his rifle training as a former member of the Marine Reserves team at Charleston barracks.

Coach Pyne formerly shot with the First Corps Cadet Rifle team, an outfit which hung up records of all sorts. It is he who has done so much to bring Edison Club along as fast in such a short period of time.
